Hurricane Ivan didn't harm the Diamondhead Arts and Creative Crafts Show one bit Saturday. Hundreds of people showed up to sample the wares. The show continues today.

21st Annual Arts and Creative Crafts Show at Diamondhead

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Arts and Creative Crafts Show at Diamondhead will continue today, Sunday, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

This year's lineup of exhibitors includes many familiar names, crafters who have brought their quality work to the show for several years. Those returning will feature wood and fabric crafts, quilted items, dried and silk flower arrangements, pottery, ceramics, and porcelain, handmade baskets; stained and etched glass; block printed, tie dyed, hand painted and stenciled clothing for children and adults; shell crafts; ribbon crafts; fine arts and tile painting; metal sculpture and plant hangars; handcrafted jewelry; potpourri; custom made birdhouses; leather crafts; wrought iron plant stands; and cypress outdoor furniture and swings. These are just a sample of the wide variety and selection available.

A wide variety of arts and crafts vendors will have displays.

Drinks, sandwiches and "munchies" will be available outside. The Diamondhead Country Club will have a lunch special available inside.

The Diamondhead Community Association Continuing Education, one of the show sponsors, will be holding a raffle with exciting prizes in conjunction with the Crafts Show. Raffle tickets will be on sale, with the drawings this afternoon. You need not be present to win. The other show sponsors are the Diamondhead Youth Organization and the Diamondhead Youth Summer Program. The Diamondhead Youth Organization is dedicated to providing recreational activities, equipment and opportunities for the young people of Diamondhead. The Diamondhead Youth Summer Program provides educational and enrichment activities.

There will be free shuttle bus transportation provided from the Diamondhead Shopping Center parking lot.

The air conditioned bus will deliver you to where the action is, and return at your convenience.

For more information please contact, Brierley Acker at (228) 255-2697 or Linda Wallace at 452-2200.

Boil Water advisory lifted in Pass Isles

System officials and Lee Purvis, spokesperson for the water system, on Friday lifted the Boil water notice for people who live in Pass Christian Isle Subdivision on the following streets: Ponce De Leon, Havana, Sandyhook, Fairway and Audubon in Hancock County and get their water from the system no longer need to boil water prior to consumption.

Users were first advised to boil their drinking water May 10th 2004. Multiple tests performed by the Mississippi state Department of Health Laboratory indicate the water now meets the standards of the Safe Drinking Water Law.

Hurricane Ivan damage recovery

Standard business and homeowners policies will cover wind damage from Hurricane Ivan, according to the Insurance Information Institute (I.I.I.). However, such policies do not cover damage from flooding. Flood damage is covered under policies written by the National Flood Insurance Program.

The I.I.I. offers the following suggestions to homeowners whose property has been damaged:

- Be prepared to give your agent or insurance representative a description of the damage. Your agent will report the loss to your insurance company or to a qualified adjuster who will contact you as soon as possible to inspect the damage. Be sure to give your agent a telephone number where you can be reached.

- Take photos of the damaged areas. These will help you with the claims process and will assist the adjuster in the investigation.

- Prepare a detailed inventory of all damaged or destroyed personal property. Be sure to make two copies - one for yourself and one for the adjuster. Your list should be as complete as possible including a description of the items, dates of purchase or approximate age, cost at time of purchase and estimated replacement cost.

- Collect canceled checks, invoices, receipts or other papers that will assist the adjuster in obtaining the value of the destroyed property.

- Make whatever temporary repairs you can. Cover broken windows, damaged roofs and walls to prevent further destruction. Save receipts for supplies and materials you purchase. Your insurance company will reimburse you for reasonable expenses in making temporary repairs.

- Secure a detailed estimate for permanent repairs to your home from a reliable contractor and give it to the adjuster. The estimate should contain the proposed repairs, repair costs and replacement prices.

Serious losses will be given priority. Losses will be adjusted and claims paid as quickly as possible but hardship cases are usually handled fast. If your home has been destroyed or seriously damaged, your agent will do everything possible to assure you are given priority.

The Insurance Information Institute has also prepared a free brochure, Settling An Insurance Claim After A Disaster. Consumers can get a copy by sending a self addressed, stamped envelope to the Insurance Information Institute, 110 William Street, New York, NY, 10038 or by accessing I.I.I.'s web site at: <http://www.iii.org>.

In addition, the Institute for Business & Home Safety has information on what a home owner and business owner can do to increase their protection against everyday storms as well as natural disasters. Visit their Web site at www.disaster-safety.org.

Three die in Mississippi after Ivan slams Alabama

BY SHELIA HARDWELL
 BYRD

Associated Press Writer
 Mississippi recorded its third Ivan-related fatality Friday when a man died of head injuries suffered in a car accident a day earlier as the hurricane's powerful winds lingered across the state's eastern counties, officials said.

The Mississippi Emergency Management Agency said the accident occurred Thursday in Jones County. Officials said a car driven by Jackie Lee Davis, 58, of Laurel was struck by a pine tree on Mississippi 537 during high winds and he died in a Hattiesburg hospital.

On Thursday, MEMA said separate deaths in Lee and Noxubee counties were storm-related.

Word of the death came as the state stepped up a cleanup campaign from Hurricane Ivan, which spared the Mississippi Gulf Coast a head-on assault as it plowed ashore in neighboring Alabama. Several counties in Ivan's path have been declared eligible for various federal disaster assistance programs.

As of 8:30 a.m. Friday, MEMA was reporting 59,800 customers in the state still without electricity, down sharply from the more than 145,000 homes and businesses left in the dark both during and after Ivan reached the beach.

That figure includes Mississippi Power Co., which supplies electricity to much of the Gulf Coast. The utility said Friday morning that its crews had restored service to about half of the 70,000 customers initially affected by the storm.

Emergency workers said the situation could have been much more catastrophic.

A news crew videotapes the front of a tractor-trailer that has fallen over a missing section of the I-10 Bridge near Milton, Fla. Parts of the bridge were destroyed during Ivan.

"We were lucky," said Jackson County Civil Defense Director Butch Loper.

One of the deaths occurred when Daniel Whitworth, 44, of Baldwin, was trying to fix a television antenna that had fallen during gusts caused by Ivan. A live electrical wire hit the antenna about 11:45 a.m. Thursday, electrocuting Whitworth, Lee County officials said.

In Noxubee County, coroner R.I. Calhoun said Billy J. Parker, 54, was killed when he was struck by a falling tree limb during high winds associated with Ivan's move inland.

Calhoun said Parker was helping a neighbor remove a tree limb from a house in the Brooksville community. Parker was the former fire chief in Brooksville and owned a hardware store.

"Thankfully, Mississippi fared Ivan better than we all anticipated, but nevertheless thousands of Mississippians from the coast through east-central Mississippi are without power and have suffered significant damage from high winds," said U.S. Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss., whose home is in Pascagoula.

Businesses in south Mississippi were reopening. The Gulf Coast's 12 casinos reopened early Friday. They were ordered closed Tuesday as Ivan approached.

Authorities said more than 145,000 homes and businesses lost electricity due to the hurricane. In addition, there were reports of flooding problems.

Gov. Haley Barbour, who inspected the hurricane damage on Thursday, said the storm's winds reached well north of the coast.

Some 13,000 people in Meridian in east-central Mississippi were without power Friday morning, according to Mississippi Power Co.

Mississippi Power Co. president Anthony Topazi said electricity should be restored to most parts of the coast by Friday night, and officials were still assessing the situation in Meridian. Power workers from as far away as New Mexico were being brought to Mississippi to help.

Ponderings

by James R. "Randy" Ponder
Editor and Publisher

Hurricane Ivan did not strike Hancock County

The wrath and fury that was Hurricane Ivan struck the shores of Alabama and Florida in the wee hours of Thursday morning. The storm's slight shift to the East just before landfall spared Hancock County a more direct hit with potential disastrous results. In other words, we dodged a bullet.

Instead of waking up Thursday morning to uprooted trees and damaged homes, we discovered an Oz like day of bright sunshine and quickly moving puffy white clouds, along with light breezes.

Yes, the electricity was off for a while in many parts of the county, and small branches and twigs littered the streets and yards, but otherwise, it was as if nothing had happened. A beautiful day to take the plywood off the windows and to return the lounge chairs and grill to the patio or deck.

But the threat of a major hurricane is a very serious matter. It is a life threatening event.

Many, many people heeded warnings and evacuated the area. And that was good. We all know many areas of Hancock County floods with the slightest opportunity. With a category IV hurricane bearing down on us, why would anyone in those low-lying areas take a chance with the lives of their families and themselves?

Even though everyone had several days warning, many people still did not leave. Some had legitimate reasons. They were emergency personnel; fire, police or sheriff department employees; medical workers; etc.

Others stayed for other reasons. Time after time I heard the comments, "I'm staying, my house survived Camille," or, "We didn't get water in Camille."

Hurricane Camille destroyed the Mississippi Gulf Coast in 1969. Hundreds died and thousands of buildings were obliterated. Camille forever changed the face of our communities here on the Coast. Camille is THE hurricane by which all others are judged.

But each time I heard those comments, I could not help but think of the disclaimer used on most financial advertisements: "Past performance is no guarantee of future results." Or something to that effect. I suspect it could also apply to storms.

Some simply had no place to go, or no way to leave. Others stayed for the excitement of it all. Some had hurricane parties.

Now they can boast of their bravery, tell tall tales of how they laughed in the face of nature's most awesome and destructive force. Friends from away from the Coast will be impressed. They gambled with their very lives and lived to tell about it.

And that is the problem with a hurricane like Ivan. Day after day, the media warned us of impending doom. Category V Hurricane Ivan was headed straight to the mouth of the Mississippi River. It was going to be the worst storm to hit the United States since the beginning of time. Then the hurricane weakened a little. And then, at the last moment, it moved to the East. And then, nothing.

The new residents of the Coast may think they are now hurricane veterans. The people who evacuated, waiting for hours in bumper to bumper traffic, may now think, why did I leave? And those foolhardy hurricane parties may now be convinced they made the right decision to stay and drink.

There is one major problem with all this reasoning. We did not have a hurricane in Hancock County. Lower Alabama and the Florida panhandle had a hurricane. We had little more than gale force winds and almost no rain. No massive flooding. Being on the western, outer fringes of Hurricane Ivan, the winds we did encounter actually helped to push the tide out, not in.

Our neighbors in Gulf Shores and Pensacola know how powerful a hurricane can be, and the massive devastation it can bring. It's not a pretty picture. They experienced a hurricane, we did not. Ivan dismantled the I-10 bridge over Escambia Bay in Pensacola, what could it have done to your property?

Don't be lulled into a false sense of security by this "near miss." Do yourself a favor; never, never take the threat of a hurricane lightly. When the next hurricane threat comes, and it will sooner or later, heed the warnings the authorities are issuing. If you are instructed to leave, then leave.

Act like your life depends upon it. It very well could.

No more shortsighted shipbuilding

Some folks in Washington are saying we can build only two big warships next year to satisfy our security needs. Some bureaucrats are actually flirting with asking foreign shipbuilders to construct America's future Navy, leaving our remaining handful of American shipbuilders out in the cold.

Needless to say, I strongly disagree with these people. America always has been a maritime nation, and we've got to make sure it stays that way.

More than 90 percent of our foreign trade travels on the world's oceans. To lose our shipbuilding industry is to lose a bit of our national identity and our national security. We can't allow that to happen.

In Panama, the Gulf War, the Balkans, Afghanistan and in Iraq, America has projected power and protected its interests using the legacy of a 600-ship Navy championed by President Reagan and Mississippi's own Senator John C. Stennis.

Today, after a virtual ship acquisition hiatus in the 1990s, we've just about used up that investment, and the Department of Defense plans to curtail its spending by purchasing only two large warships in the next budget cycle. At that procurement rate, our fleet is poised to drop below 120 combat ships, the smallest it has been since 1917.

We're even decommissioning state-of-the-art ships like the groundbreaking USS Ticonderoga which I helped christen at Ingalls shipyard in 1983. The "Tico" remains the envy of every modern navy, yet we're scrapping it. It makes about as much sense as me or you junking a two-year-old car that we've financed for five years. With these kind of cuts being pondered, America has to ask itself: Are we going to remain a maritime nation? Or, should we forsake a 218-year tradition of robust shipbuilding for short-term savings.

Right now, the jury is still out.

I admit to being biased in favor of shipbuilding. My father was a shipyard worker. I've spent my life living in the shadow of shipyard cranes, and I've attended probably hundreds of ship

To the citizens of South Mississippi:

I am extremely grateful for the support that you provided to the soldiers of the 1-155th Infantry Battalion, Mississippi Army National Guard, I was truly amazed at the turnout for the numerous ceremonies and fund raising events throughout this area. We will miss everything about Mississippi during our deployment, but we will miss our family and dear friends the most. We are sad to depart from our homes, but we are proud to serve our nation's cause. I know the families of these fine soldiers will be affected more than anyone else. It is reassuring to know our communities will bond together to assist these families while we are away. It is also comforting to know we have your continued support during this time period. These are outstanding soldiers and fine examples to these communities. I am confident in our ability to accomplish our assigned missions, and we will christenings at Northrop Grumman Ingalls Ship Systems, just down the street from my neighborhood. But this is about more than Mississippi, Pascagoula, Ingalls Shipyard, Trent Lott, or even the Navy itself.

America only has six remaining shipyards that build large Navy ships, down dramatically from a few decades ago. Each yard specializes in certain types of ships, and the federal government is their only customer. So, if we fail to plan and build ships, we're going to lose some of the six remaining shipyards. And, if we start buying or continue leasing ships from foreign yards, thousands of skilled shipyard workers from Bath, Maine; Groton, Connecticut; Norfolk, Virginia; Pascagoula, New Orleans and San Diego will lose their jobs.

These aren't like layoffs at a sock factory. Shipyards require lots of skilled folks and investment. They can't just close and then reopen later.

That's why we've got to support our shipyards and the skilled workers that they employ.

This is why I have sponsored legislation with several other Senators requiring the Navy to have at least 375 warships and stopping the Navy from leasing any more foreign ships. That's also why Senator Lindsey Graham and I sponsored an amendment to the 2005 National Defense Authorization Act calling for support of a National Shipbuilding Research Program.

The program specifically was chartered by the Navy and the industry to cultivate innovation, make our shipyards more competitive and reduce the cost of naval vessels, saving taxpayer dollars.

That's not to say our shipyards aren't efficient and cost-effective, because they are. However, America's shipbuilding industry, our national security and our maritime capability are just too important to neglect or farm out to foreign workers. These proposed shipbuilding cutbacks aren't official policy yet, but just the whisper of something as foolish as gutting our Naval shipbuilding capacity or transferring skilled shipbuilding jobs overseas, is enough to get this Senator riled up. If this shortsighted shipbuilding plan ever comes to Congress, your elected representatives will either ignore it or rewrite it, but we won't pass it.

proudly represent this area and the State of Mississippi.

I would like to encourage every classroom in this area to become pen pals with one of these outstanding soldiers. This will provide our students a great educational opportunity and a better appreciation for their nation. They will have an insight view of a country and culture that dates back to the Old Testament. Most importantly, they will understand that their freedom is not free, and no one bares this burden more than our service members and their families. This will also be beneficial to our soldiers by increasing their morale and keeping them in touch with area events. There is nothing more comforting than to get a letter from someone back home. The fact that someone is remembering you in their thoughts and prayers is extremely uplifting. I ask that our students and teachers in this area take an active part in assisting us during our deployment. The National Guard Armories and Family Support Groups in Biloxi, Poplarville, Tylertown, McComb, Natchez, and Brookhaven can easily provide you a soldier's name and current mailing address.

Thank you again for your continued support, and we look forward to our return.

Federal disaster assistance for Ivan recovery begins

U.S. Senator Trent Lott on Thursday thanked the Bush Administration for its quick approval of federal hurricane disaster assistance for individual residents in seven South Mississippi counties and for local governments in 23 South and East Central Mississippi counties. Senator Lott is now contacting local officials in the impacted areas to determine further recovery needs.

"Thankfully, Mississippi fared Ivan better than we all anticipated, but nevertheless thousands of Mississippians from the Coast through East Central Mississippi are without power and have suffered significant damage from high winds," Senator Lott said. "Our prayers remain with our neighbors in Alabama and the Florida Panhandle who lost loved ones or who experienced damage to their home or other property. The Bush Administration has acted quickly upon the requests of the four states impacted by Ivan, and now we begin to assess the damage and determine the best way to help people hurt by Ivan's destructive path."

The federal assistance includes both individual assistance for private citizens impacted by the storm in George, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Perry, Stone and Wayne counties. The declaration also includes public assistance primarily for state and local governments recovering from the storm.

Counties eligible for public assistance include Clarke, Covington, Forrest, George, Greene, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Jefferson Davis, Jones, Kemper, Lauderdale, Lowndes, Marion, Neshoba, Newton, Noxubee, Pearl River, Perry, Smith, Stone and Walthall for debris removal and emergency protective measures.

The designation further includes hazard mitigation assistance to state and local governments for actions taken to prevent or reduce long-term risk to life and property from this storm. All Mississippi counties may apply for hazard mitigation assistance.

Thursday morning Senator Lott called county supervisors and other public officials in several Mississippi counties hardest hit by Ivan. The storm continues a track through western Alabama still impacting counties in extreme portions of Eastern Mississippi.

"In many cases the aftermath of a storm can be the most deadly, and certainly we know that its effects are not confined to the immediate coastal counties," Senator Lott said. "As Mississippians begin their recovery and return to their homes, I join Governor Barbour and other officials in urging patience and caution. Hazardous conditions remain in the affected areas as specialists work to clean up debris and restore utilities."

Residents, local governments and businesses wanting to inquire about disaster assistance may do so by calling the FEMA Hotline: 1-800-621-FEMA.

Other numbers which may be helpful include:

The Small Business Administration (SBA) 1-800-359-2227, for business assistance inquiries and the Red Cross: 1-866-GET INFO, for inquiries regarding humane assistance.

Hancock Humane Society gets Mississippi car tag grant

THE SEA COAST ECHO.
Hancock County

Humane Society has been granted a $5,000 award for its spay/neuter program. This organization was established in 1976 to help the residents of the Bay St. Louis area who can't afford the cost of spay/neuter for their companion and rescue animals.

HCCS has 20 members and numerous volunteers. Reducing the companion animal overpopulation problem and eliminating the need for euthanasia is the goal. For more information contact HCHS at 228-467-7686.

The "I Care For Animals" Car Tag program allows Mississippians to purchase a special license plate for an additional $35, the proceeds from which help homeless, injured and abused animals in humane shelters and rescue programs across the state.

The money goes into a state animal care fund which is distributed to city and county animal shelters and rescue organizations which make application and meet the criteria for award. To date the program has helped several communities with spay/neuter and other animal-welfare-related programs.

Interested cities, counties and non-profit animal groups may call Mary Jo Brooks at 601-936-3237 for more information.

We were lucky with Ivan

There was a lot of anxiety in our area on Wednesday, as the expected curve of Hurricane Ivan seemed like it was never going to come.

We probably had more people evacuate the area than ever before for Ivan, which was good.

Hancock County's Emergency Management Agency's team did a very good job in the preparations for Hurricane Ivan. Director Brian Adam and everyone from the county, two cities, state and federal agencies need to be commended for their efforts.

We were so close to Ivan's might and fury, and if that curve had not happened, we would have been in very serious trouble.

One of the things I keep hearing about too, is the cooperation of the general public as a whole.

I am not sure of the wind speeds we had on Wednesday evening and night, but it sure sounded to me as if some were of hurricane strength.

We keep hearing about hurricane preparedness and the preparations for Ivan showed the importance of necessary for such a major disaster.

Just a little bit to the west for Ivan would have meant damages similar to the west coast of Mississippi, Alabama and Florida's pan handle.

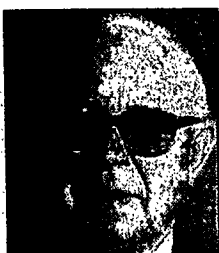

For sure, we had lots and lots of law enforcement folks in the area from the sheriff's office, Bay and Waveland Police and Mississippi State Troopers and other agencies.

This time we were very lucky, and who knows about what the next time may bring.

On Thursday there were many folks returning home and many even seemed happy to be collecting the debris from the limbs, etc., in their yards.

There was also the removable of plywood and tape from windows and doors going on too.

As I drove along Beach Boulevard on Friday morning, the waters in the Bay were calm, the sun was shining, and it looked just like many other days that make this place such a wonderful place to live.

Thank you South Mississippi...

We can't thank you enough for your patience and support during Hurricane Ivan. Everyone was prepared for the worst, but fortunately we were spared from Ivan's most destructive winds and torrential rains.

With your help, your electric cooperative was able to restore power to many members within hours and to every member within a couple of days.

As life here returns to normal, our thoughts and prayers are with Alabama and Florida residents who have just begun to pick up the pieces. In the days and weeks to come, we will send them our support.

JV Hawks defeat Long Beach 27-24

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The Hancock High School junior varsity football team defeated Long Beach on Monday, September 13, by the score of 27-24.

The hawks' offensive line of Rinty Ladner, Nick Going, Adam DuLaune, Jacob Ruzicka and Brandon Jorden opened holes for the rushing attack of Chris Jochum who scored twice totting the pigskin.

Mark Fairley and Anthony Guidry also found the endzone for Hancock.

Tyler Gardner, Chris Matthews and Arden Toms kept the Bearcats at bay with their defensive effort.

Hancock will take on Pearl River Central on Monday, September 20, at Brett Favre Field in Kiln.

Bay, Hancock & Pass set for Saturday; SSC game canceled

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

Hurricane Ivan threw a wrinkle in area high school football action with his appearance in the middle of the week.

No area teams were in action on Friday night. However, the Hancock Hawks, Bay High Tigers and Pass Christian Pirates were all in action on Saturday evening.

The Hawks (0-3) hosted the undefeated and #6-ranked Gulfport Admirals (3-0) on Saturday evening at Brett Favre Field in Kiln. Kickoff is slated for 7:30pm. Game details will be available in Thursday's edition of the newspaper.

The undefeated Bay High Tigers (3-0) and the Pass Christian Pirates (0-3) locked horns on Saturday evening at Joe D. McCullough Stadium in the Division 8 Class 4A opener for both schools. Kickoff is set for 7pm. Game details will be available in Thursday's edition of the newspaper.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-

a-chaws (2-1) and the Ocean Springs Greyhounds (3-0) agreed to cancel their game altogether due to scheduling and logistical obstacles with both teams. Ocean Springs was one of the hardest hit areas on the Coast by Hurricane Ivan. Ironically, the two teams cancelled their 1992 meeting due a hurricane.

The prep review, Friday night forecast and Offensive/Defensive Players of the Week is slated for Thursday's edition, as well.

The Diamondhead 6.0 senior mixed tennis team recently won the Gulf Coast USTA Tennis League in their division. During regular league play they won six of the eight matches against other coast teams, which advanced them to the state tournament in Columbus, MS. Competing in the state tournament, August 27-29, they won their first four matches against other teams throughout the state, which advanced them to the finals. In the final match they finished as runners-up to the local Columbus team. Team members include Pete Woody, left, Brenda Hendrickson, Bob Allen, Lanelle Barnard, Gail McConnon, Gail Hunt, Lew DeLong, Debbie DeLong, Will Clark and Jim Hunt. Not pictured are Jinky Underwood and Harley Bonham.

CATHERINE CARTER
Catherine Brown Carter, 69, of New Orleans, died Saturday, September 11, 2004 at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport.

Mrs. Carter was a native of Byram, Miss., and a resident of Bay St. Louis for 35 years and for 10 years in New Orleans. She was a graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi. She was a teacher at Bay High School for 20 years.

Survivors include her daughter, Caytee Clark and 1 grandchild.

A memorial service was held in New Orleans, LA on Saturday, September 18, 2004. Burial was private.

HELEN COOK

Helen Connaughton Cook, 91, Bay St. Louis, MS, passed away at the Miramar Lodge in Pass Christian, MS on September 15, 2004.

Mrs. Cook, a native of Mandeville, LA, and a resident of Bay St. Louis for the past twenty years enjoyed more than fifty three years of marriage with her late husband, Henry J. Cook, Jr. They were parents cast from the mold of this century's greatest generation. She was a housewife, homemaker and mother who placed family above all things. Her beloved husband went to war during WWII and she held things down on the home front managing a home and young children and never did her children feel that they were in a one parent family. After her beloved husband (Suga) passed away she continued to be a loving mother, provider, counselor and best friend to her two children. She was an avid Saints fan and never missed a game on TV. Even after the loss of her eyesight, she faithfully listened to every game, ever their faithful fan.

Survivors include her son, Col. (Ret) Henry J. Cook, III of Diamondhead, MS, one daughter, Kaarin C. Brown, of Bay St. Louis, MS and Slidell, LA, two sisters, Mildred Popowych of Rochester, NY and Muriel Achee of Abita Springs, LA. Grandchildren, Henry J. Cook, IV of Houston, TX, Leon M. Cook of New Orleans, LA, Gavin M. Cook of Riverview, LA, Brian P. Cook of Anchorage, AK, Stephen J. Cook of New Orleans, LA, Collette Marie Cook and Nicole Catherine Cook of Baton Rouge, LA. and by seven great-grandchildren.

Visitation will be Monday September 20, 2004 beginning at 11:00 AM, with a memorial service at 1:00 PM at Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis, MS followed by a committal service at the Biloxi National cemetery. In lieu of flowers please send memorial donations to: American Cancer Society P.O. Box 102454, Atlanta, GA 30368-2454 or the Military Order of the Purple Heart Service Foundation (Scholarship Fund) P.O. Box 9618, Washington, D.C. 20077-7388

JUANITA GOUGHENOUR

Juanita J. Goughenour, age 82 and a resident of Diamondhead, MS, died Sunday, September 12, 2004, in Gulfport.

Mrs. Goughenour is survived by two sons, Thomas D. (Lynn) Goughenour, of Diamondhead; and Hollis T. (Margaret) Goughenour, of McNeill, MS; a daughter, Trish K. (Ron) Edwards, of Gulfport; brother, James O. "Jimmy" Johnson, of Murfreesboro, TN; and a grandchild, Wendy Renee Kennedy, of Gulfport.

Visitation was held on, Tuesday, September 14, at Riemann Funeral Home, 25th Avenue in Gulfport. Burial followed in Evergreen Gardens in Gulfport.

RICHARD HOPTON

Richard Hopton, 69, a native of London, England, and a resident of Diamondhead, MS, died September 13, 2004, in Diamondhead, MS.

Mr. Hopton was dearly loved and will be greatly missed by his friends and family.

Survivors include one step-son Simon Thomlinson of Oviedo, Spain and two sisters, Julia Slade of England and Rosslyn Kendrick of Australia.

Memorial donations may be made to: The Hancock Public Library 312 Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, MS. 39520.

JAMORI JOSEPH

On April 6, 2004, Balon Joseph gave birth to Ja'Mori Rashun Joseph. On September 10, 2004, God called him home to be with his great-grandmother, Viola Joseph, who preceded him in death, along with aunts, Viola Williams and Marilyn Boudreaux.

Ja'Mori leaves to cherish his memory his loving mother, Balon M. Joseph of Pass Christian; his beloved father, Jason S. May of Bay St. Louis; a brother, Ja'Colby McFadden, and a sister, Danielle McFadden, both of Biloxi; three grandmothers, Lola Joseph of New Orleans, LA; Grace Light and Vira May, both of Pass Christian; one step-grandmother, Evelyn Sonier, of Bay St. Louis; two grandfathers, Louis Light, of Bay St. Louis; and Kenneth May, of Pass Christian; one godmother, Ashleigh Patton, of Pass Christian; two godfathers, John Darby, of Gulfport and Brandon Benoit, of DeLisle; two godmothers, Dellareese McDowell, Alyssa Jeffries, both of Pass Christian; one godbrother, Kevan Joseph, of Gulfport; a very special friend, Jada Morgan, and a host of uncles, aunts, cousins, and friends.

Visitation will be Monday, September 20, 2004, at Riemann Funeral Home, 25th Avenue in Gulfport, from 2:00 p.m. until the service at 3:00 p.m. Burial will be in Finley Cemetery in Harrison County.

RODNEY WEBER

Rodney Lawrence Weber, 76, died at Northshore Regional Medical Center on Wednesday, Sept. 15, 2004.

Mr. Weber was a native of Garyville, La. and a resident of Bay St. Louis.

For 59 years, he was the beloved husband of Mary Lena Coussou. He was the father of Ronnie Webber of Destrehan and Gwen Normand of Hammond; the father-in-law of Aline Weber and Tim Normand; son of the late William Weber and Antonia Duhon Weber; brother of Carl J. Weber of New Orleans, Clyde Weber of El Centro, Ca. and the late Guy, Alvin and Donald Weber, Minnie Brady, Edna Mae Madere and Inez Dresner; grandfather of Suzzy, Rodney III, Holly and Timmy II. He is also survived by four great-grandchildren and nieces and nephews.

Relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the Funeral Mass from the Jefferson Chapel of Sharp-Sontheimer-Tharp, 1600 N. Causeway Blvd., Metairie, on Tuesday, Sept. 21, at 11 a.m. Interment in Garden of Memories Cemetery. Visitation will be on Monday, Sept. 20, from 5-9 p.m.; and on Tuesday from 9 a.m. until funeral time.

Bay St. Louis Hosts Third Annual E.C.O. Triathlon

Athletes from around the Gulf region will converge in Bay St. Louis October 3 for the 3rd Annual Earth Events E.C.O. Triathlon. The race - featuring kayaking, biking and running - starts at 8 a.m. and will be followed by a party on the beach with live music. Food and beverages at the post-race party will be provided by Brennan's Restaurant, Bay City Grill, Domino's Pizza, Subway, Budweiser, Abita Springs and Teagarden Ice Company.

Proceeds from the event will benefit Earth Events, a Bay St. Louis-based organization that specializes in educating people about the environment and healthy living through the arts. All festivities will take place in front of Da Beach House in

"We want to make the E.C.O. Triathlon a fall tradition here on the Coast," said Colleen Read, co-founder of Earth Events. "I have no doubt that with expert assistance from the Gulf Coast Running Club, tremendous participation from sponsors, support from the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and community volunteers we will make it happen."

Other key sponsors are: Da Beach House; Center for Creation; ABC Rental; Access Massage & Bodywork; Cyclist Choice & Fitness; Pain Relief and Wellness Clinic; South Coast Skate Park and

Retail Stores; Southern Printing; Silkscreening & Embroidery; and Speedy Printing. The Department of Marine Resources and the Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police and Fire Departments are providing logistical support as well.

All three legs of the race begin and end at Da Beach House and take place along the Bay St. Louis/Waveland beach. The triathlon includes an adult competition (2 miles kayaking, 12 miles biking and 3.1 miles running) with eight age groups, a relay competition and a youth competition with three age groups. The youth race, for age 12 and under, consists of a half-mile kayak, a 1-mile bike and a half-mile run. Each participant will receive a race t-shirt and trophies will go to top finishers.

Calendar Listing

Triathlon - October 3. Third Annual E.C.O. Triathlon, Bay St. Louis, MS. Kayak on Bay St. Louis (2m); bike down scenic Beach Blvd (12m); and run on beachside path (3.1m). Online class enrollment surges at Ole Miss Enrollment for online classes has set a new record this fall at the University of Mississippi. Anne M. Klingen, director of Independent Studies and Ole Miss Online, said online class registration stands at 1,701, up from 1,077 in fall 2003. The number includes students enrolled for regular classes at the Oxford, Tupelo and Desoto campuses, as well as 33 students enrolled only through the Ole Miss Online campus.

Figures show 1,179 students taking one online class, 180 students taking two classes, 32 students taking three classes, 14 students taking four classes and two students taking five classes. Included are more than 1,300 students at the Oxford campus taking at least one online course.

Klingen said students "needing the freedom to work classes around their busy schedules" caused the surge. "Today's students are under many more obligations, including working full time or being full-time parents," she said. "Students on the Oxford campus are also involved in many service-oriented activities."

That's why Carly Ginn, a liberal arts junior minoring in journalism, psychology and applied sciences takes online classes.

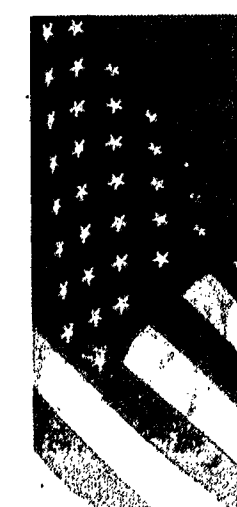

"Online classes are very convenient. The classes are structured but allow me some flexibility," said the Batesville native.

Klingen said she believes the "uncertainty" of online classes has diminished too.

"I think many students believed taking an online class meant having no one to assist you, but that's not true. Ole Miss Online professors keep regular office hours, usually online, and are always available for one-on-one consultation."

Ginn agreed: "When I took my first online course, I was a bit intimidated. I thought I would be in cyberspace by myself. This is my third online course. The instructions are clear, the resources are great and I receive lots of feedback from my professors."

BUSINESS NEWS

Seven South Mississippi counties qualify for Disaster Unemployment Assistance

Workers in seven South Mississippi counties who were unable to work because of severe storms as a result of Hurricane Ivan may apply for Disaster Unemployment Assistance (DUA), the Mississippi Department of Employment Security (MDES) announced Thursday.

"People who live or work in one of the affected counties and could not work because of severe storms and high winds as a result of Hurricane Ivan that occurred September 15 may be eligible for DUA," said MDES Executive Director Tommye Dale Favre.

The workers in George, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Perry, Stone, and Wayne counties are eligible to apply. Workers may be eligible to receive unemployment benefits of up to $210 per week.

Self-employed workers and those who work for employers not covered by unemployment insurance may apply for DUA. These workers are required to bring a Social Security card, a copy of their 2003 income tax return and documentation showing earnings and employment prior to Hurricane Ivan when applying.

Individuals who were unable to reach their job because the disaster prevented their travel, or who were about to begin employment but the disaster prevented them from doing so may apply. Also eligible to apply for DUA are individuals who became the major support for a household because of the death of the head of the household due to the disaster, workers who can not work because of an injury caused by the disaster or physical damage or destruction to their place of employment, workers who could not work because of closures by the federal government, and those who lost work as a result of their employer's loss of revenues due to a business that was damaged or destroyed that brought in a majority of the employers' revenue or income are eligible.

Claims for DUA can be filed at any MDES unemployment insurance office located in WIN Job Centers statewide, but must be applied for no later than the October 15, 2004 deadline. For additional information, please call toll free 1-888-844-3577.

Torguson plans Spanish themed casino in Biloxi

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — One of the pioneers in the Mississippi Gulf Coast's gambling industry is planning a Spanish themed casino resort.

Marlin F. Torguson is developing the resort on the Caillavet Street property owned by the Gollott family in Biloxi. Within eight miles of the casino, Torguson plans to set up an Arnold Palmer-designed golf course and a bowling alley suitable for national championships.

The floating gambling barge is to be encased in a land-moored protective shell.

Although the Mississippi Gaming Commission just approved the resort's site development plan, Torguson is hoping to start construction on the project after the first of the year.

Torguson, the founder of Casino Magic and a former member of Pinnacle Entertainment's board of directors, is familiar with the industry. He has already started securing financing for the project.

Torguson became a board member for Pinnacle Entertainment after the company acquired Casino Magic in a 1999 merger. Pinnacle later sold Casino Magic Bay St. Louis, but it still owns Casino Magic Biloxi. Torguson said he left the Pinnacle board this spring.

Although a tidelands lease has not been signed with the secretary of state's office, most of the negotiations have been resolved, he said.

The Caillavet Street project is in a Biloxi urban renewal zone and offered a good opportunity because it is on a new traffic loop that lets casino patrons easily travel back and forth between properties on the eastern edge of Biloxi's peninsula.

"All you have to do is look at the next wave," Torguson said. "It's going to have to happen around Back Bay."

With limited site space, planners opted to design fewer hotel rooms. Each of the 400 accommodations, however, will be full-fledged suites, Torguson said.

Bank employees donate to charities

Two local charitable organizations received nearly $20,000 in donations raised through the efforts of employees of The Peoples Bank during the year.

Gertrude Newman, Peoples Bank employee charity committee chair, presented checks for $9,520 each to Ann Rivera of Morning Star Pregnancy Center and Angie Sharp and Terri Redding of LIFE of South Mississippi in a ceremony at the bank's Main Branch in downtown Biloxi.

LIFE of South Mississippi is devoted to assisting people with significant disabilities to improve their capacity to live independently. Morning Star Pregnancy Center is an agency of Catholic Social Services whose mission is to provide shelter and counseling services to pregnant women on the Gulf Coast.

The Peoples Bank employees raised the funds through a series of charity golf and bowling tournaments as well as through individual efforts during the year.

"Once again, our employees have shown their commitment to giving back to the communities we serve," said Chevis C. Swetman, chairman and CEO of the bank. "I'm proud of our team's efforts to contribute meaningful financial support to organizations like LIFE of South Mississippi and Morning Star," he

Down payment assistance

The Mississippi Association of Mortgage Brokers (MAMB) has announced a grant program which will enable thousands of Mississippi homebuyers to purchase or build a home without requiring a down payment. These grants do not have to be paid back.

The MAMB DPA Program is open to any home buyer approved for a home loan that will accept a grant from a non-profit charity. Interested consumers, Realtors, mortgage brokers and lenders may visit the MAMB website, www.msamb.org or call 877.757.5755 to speak with a program coordinator.

PERS to hold board election

The Public Employees' Retirement System of Mississippi (PERS) Board of Trustees has approved an election schedule for a position on the Board representing retirees.

The election will be for a six-year term beginning May 1, 2005. Notices concerning the election will be mailed Monday, November 1, 2004, to everyone who receives monthly benefits, including retirement benefits, disability benefits and survivor benefits, from a retirement system administered by the PERS Board.

Any person receiving monthly benefits may qualify for the election by filing petitions signed by at least 25 benefit recipients. Anyone interested in being a candidate should contact PERS after November 1, 2004, to obtain petitions by calling 1-800-444-7377 (toll free). From the Jackson area, please call (601) 359-3589.

The deadline for filing petitions at the PERS Building, 429 Mississippi Street, Jackson, MS 39201 is 5 p.m. Friday, December 3, 2004. Petitions received after the deadline will be disallowed even if they are postmarked prior to the deadline.

Ballots will be mailed to all benefit recipients Wednesday, December 22, 2004. The deadline for returning ballots to PERS is 5 p.m., Monday, January 24, 2005. If no candidate receives a majority of votes cast in the first election, there will be a runoff between the two candidates receiving the largest number of votes.

The incumbent, former PERS Executive Secretary Fred M. Walker of Jackson, has announced that he will retire from the Board at the end of the current term and will not be a candidate for re-election.

The 10-member PERS Board includes two retirees, two state employees, one gubernatorial appointee, the State Treasurer and one representative each of public schools and community colleges, municipalities, counties and Institutions of Higher Learning. With the exception of the State Treasurer and the gubernatorial appointee, all members are elected to staggered six-year terms by the segment of the Retirement System they represent.

PERS is currently conducting an election for the Institutions of Higher Learning Representative.

Evacuees -- safe, not sorry in comparison to the billions of dollars in damage and more than three dozen dead Ivan left in its wake as it tore through Alabama and Florida early Thursday morning.

Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland officials all issued mandatory evacuation notices for flood zones A, B and C on Tuesday. Many heeded those notices, and should be glad they did, Bay St. Louis Assistant Police Chief David Stepro said Friday, even though the worst of Ivan missed us.

"We really dodged a bullet ...," Stepro said. "We're very sorry (Ivan) went to the Florida/Alabama line, but very happy it didn't come to us. I just hope people don't take it for granted and decide to stay during the next hurricane."

The fact that many people did the right thing and evacuated helped area state, federal and local emergency and law enforcement personnel cope with the storm, Stepro said, as did the fact that the people who stayed cooperated.

"There were no arrests for curfew violations," Stepro said, "no arrests for anything. Everybody cooperated. I'm very proud of the people of Bay St. Louis and Hancock County."

Area fire fighters were just as happy as local police officers.

"Everything went pretty smooth," Kim Jones, chief of the West Hancock Fire Department in Pearlinton said on Friday. "There were a couple of car accidents - all of them minor. We had some power lines down. We assisted Bayside on house fire and had a couple of brush fires. There were a few medical (emergencies reported) during the storm - mainly anxiety attacks."

In other words, he said, a comparatively easy night for Hancock County's area emergency workers.

In all, according to the Federal Emergency Management Agency's initial reports, approximately 150 homes in Hancock County received minor damage from the storm. As of Saturday afternoon, no major damage had been reported, and no major injuries.

Spared

Some of the more major incidents included the collapse of the canopy at Gulfport Memorial Hospital, and Famous Joe's restaurant in Gulfport lost 30 feet of roof.

"The track of the storm shifted at the last minute," Rouse said. "If we had received the storm head on, the damage would have been catastrophic. I can't even imagine what a category 4 would do to the coast."

As of Friday afternoon, Rouse said that most power in Harrison County had been restored, but that numerous other counties to the northeast are still without electricity.

"The power companies should be commended for their speedy return to power," Rouse said.

The mandatory evacuation order and 7 p.m. curfew for Hancock County were both lifted on Thursday. Adam extended his thanks to Hancock County's citizens and civil servants for their help during the crisis.

"I'd like to thank the citizens for adhering to the mandatory evacuation," Adam said. "We appreciate the citizens taking heed to that warning and getting out. Thanks to the county and city officials for working together and cooperating throughout the storm."

Adam was also grateful for everyone who volunteered to help the EMA during the storm.

"We had a lot of volunteers that did an excellent job."

While most Gulf Coast residents evacuated, some stayed to ride out the storm. Gary Knoblock, a resident of Waveland, said he wanted to wait until the last minute to see what Ivan would do.

"If it would have come in, we would definitely have left," he said. "I'm defiantly grateful that (Ivan did not hit). I hate to see what happened to Florida, but I'm glad this area didn't get torn up."

John Willis, a resident of Bay St. Louis who evacuated to Natchitoches, LA, said he kept up with Ivan's progress on his laptop.

"We saw massive rain storms set to hit Hancock County," Willis said.

"When we went to bed Wednesday night, we thought the Coast was definitely toast."

PRCC classes will resume on Monday

Classes will resume Monday at all Pearl River Community College campuses, including the main campus in Poplarville and the Forrest County Center in Hattiesburg, in the aftermath of Hurricane Ivan.

"Other than some broken tree limbs, we had minimal damage from the hurricane," said PRCC President William Lewis. "We were very fortunate." All PRCC classes were suspended Wednesday and Thursday.

PRCC classes in Hancock County at Bay High School and Stennis Space Center were also suspended, as were night classes, in Columbia, Jeff Davis County and Picayune. They will all resume next week.

Hancock Co. Library story hours resume this week

Due to Hurricane Ivan, the children's preschool story hours at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library, the Kiln Public Library and the Waveland Public Library were cancelled last week. They will all resume this week.

Designed for pre-school age children three to five years of age who are not part of a nursery or preschool group, the programs and activities include storytelling, crafts and other activities.

Programs meet Tuesdays at 10:30 a.m. at the Waveland Public Library; Wednesdays at 10:30 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library; and Thursdays at 10:30 a.m. at the Kiln Public Library.

Dog Gone Fun is the theme for the story hour at the Waveland Public Library on Tuesday, September 14 at 10:30 a.m. Books featured include Bark, George, The Stray Dog and Where's Spot. Crafts consist of color sheets, a dog headband and a heart puppy.

Pleased to meet you! is theme for the story hour at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library on Wednesday, September 15 at 10:30 a.m.

Susan Daigre, program coordinator, plans to read One, Two, Guess Who?, The Little Engine That Could and Chrysanthemum. Children will make a name tag train. Making Friends is the theme for the story hour at the Kiln Public Library on Thursday, September 16 at 10:30 a.m. Featured books are Will You Be My Friend and Being Friends. Name tags for each child decorated with stickers, sequins and buttons are the craft children will make. They will learn a song - If You're Happy.

Programs last approximately one half hour, depending upon subject matter and planned activity. For more, contact Jamie Elston, Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library, 467-5282; Sandra Ladner, Kiln Public Library, 255-1724; or Karen Cotton, Waveland Public Library, 467-9240.

Minimum size limit of speckled trout????

Views From a Front Porch

by Paul Estronza
La Violette

laviolette@mail.datasync.com
www.annabellepublishing.com

I have a friend, Fred Deegen, who is a fisherman. However, saying Fred is a fisherman is like saying dynamite makes a loud noise. To any way of measuring quality, Fred is a fisherman's fisherman.

Fred is a marine scientist with a PhD in ichthyology. As a sideline, he writes a column on fishing in the Sun Herald and airs an extremely popular website devoted to fishing, "Doc's Best Bets For Fishing The Mississippi Gulf Coast". But putting all of these credentials aside, Fred fishes.

Just how often does Fred fish? Well, I was in his office one day when he decreed to me the fact that there had been five days the previous year that he hadn't been able to fish. Now to me, that is fishing.

On occasion I provide articles relating to marine science as well as my fishing stories to Fred's web site. When I visited his site recently, I noticed that his lead article dealt with the debate on minimum trout size now taking place along the coast. Mississippi's Department of Marine Sciences has been holding public hearings in several key areas to hear people's opinions on a proposal advanced to them to lower the present size of speckled trout from fourteen inches to twelve.

Well, they got the public's opinion loud and clear, both pro and con. Here are Doc's Best Bets (www.docsbets.com) most recent observations on the subject:

"From the sounds of it, the majority of Coast fishermen were in general agreement about keeping Mississippi's speckled trout minimum size limit at fourteen inches. Attendance at the public hearings was good, and there were a few comments made that might warrant a little follow-up.

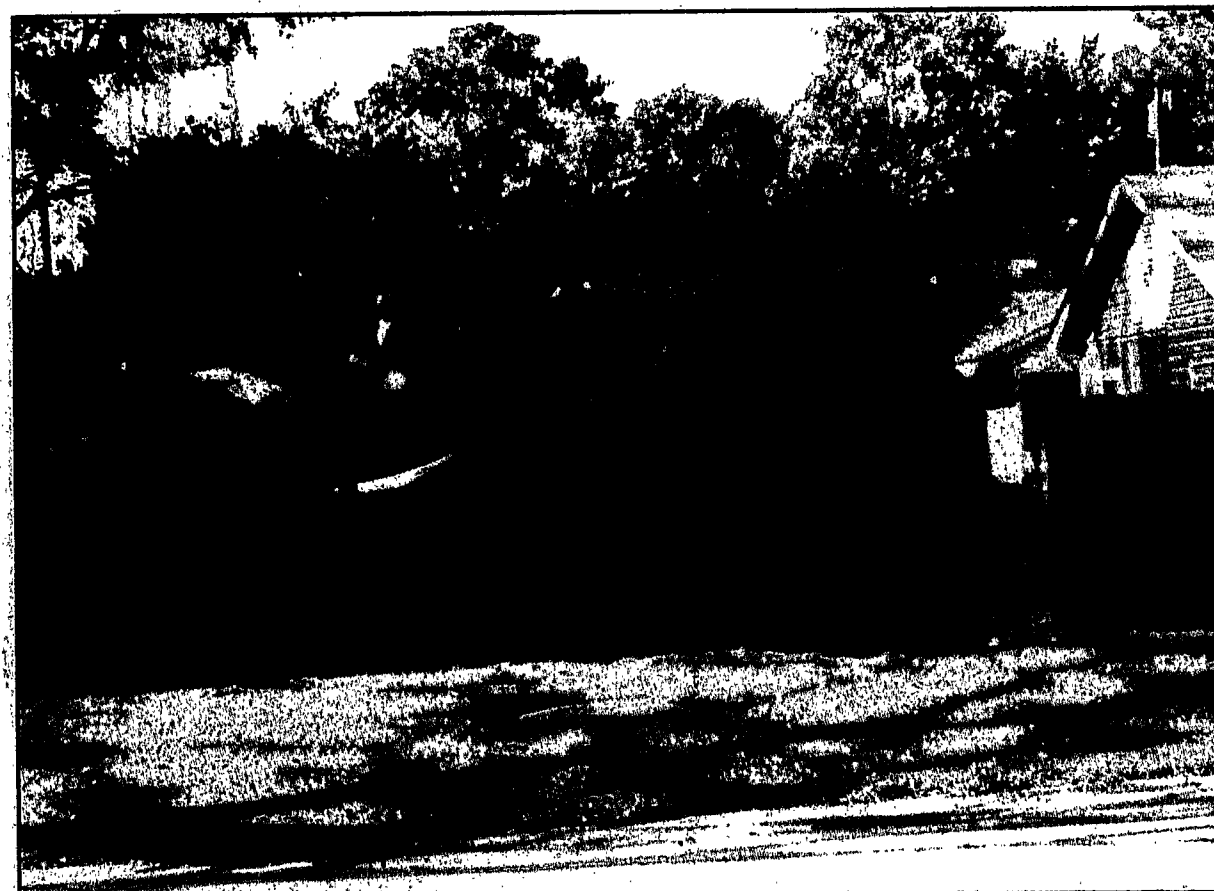

"For example, one fellow, who admitted that he was no rocket scientist, observed that the early Indians caught small trout for four hundred years along the coast without any regulations and without any problems. I'm no rocket scientist either, but I am a fisheries scientist who, I think, can

The Coast is Clear

The Choctaw Plaza Marquee was warped by high winds from Hurricane Ivan, and was dismantled Friday afternoon.

A water oak behind a residence on Commagere St. in Bay St. Louis fell during Ivan's initial landfall, tearing out a section of fence on Old Bay Lane as well.

The Turtle Landing Restaurant and Marina at Pearlinton was surrounded by water early Thursday morning thanks to the storm surge, but many areas that routinely flood in hurricanes were spared.

Although Hurricane Ivan caused billions of dollars' worth of damage and killed more than three dozen people in Alabama and Florida, much of the Mississippi Gulf Coast was spared the destruction that usually accompanies the wind and water swept our way by such an intense storm.

Repair crews from both Mississippi Power and Coast Electric were on the job early on Thursday morning, and by 4 p.m. Friday, power had been restored to every home in Hancock.

Most of the problems in Hancock County were caused by falling tree branches hitting power lines, such as this one on Hwy. 603 near Todd's.

About 150 homes in Hancock County reported minor roof damage as of Friday afternoon.

St. Rose Reunites

The St. Rose de Lima School Reunion Memory Poster featured photos and newspaper clippings on the achievements of students and alumni.

The First Ever St. Rose de Lima School-wide Reunion was held July 2, 3, and 4. More than 300 people attended each event. Friday was a Dinner/Dance, Saturday - a Picnic and Sunday - Mass and a Brunch. On Sunday two former Pastors, Fr. Borgia Aubespain, SVD and Fr. Francis Theriault, SVD co-celebrated the Mass with St. Rose's Pastor Fr. Sebastian Myladiyil, SVD.

Four Holy Spirit Sisters who taught and ministered at St. Rose were also in attendance. - Sr. Dulcy, Sr. Delores, Sr. Mary Ellen and Sr. Mary Angela.

Graduates attended from all over the United States. The oldest graduate attending was Chlotilde Clark Benoit who graduated in 1935. Also attending were Sr. Rose de Lima Hazeur who graduated in 1938 and Sr. Bertile Hazeur, who graduated in 1942.

Purple Heart Auxiliary

Patriots of Chapter 771 Military Order of the Purple Heart invited their wives to share breakfast with them at their September 4th meeting at Diamondhead Country Club. The highlight of the meeting was an address by decorated World War II veteran, Command Sergeant Major Tony Piliuti. After breakfast Mrs. Yvonne Jones chaired the meeting to organize a Unit of the Ladies Auxiliary. Commander Henry Cook presented a generous seed money check.

Meetings are the first Saturday of each month at 9:30 AM at Diamondhead Country Club. All wives whose husbands have received a Purple Heart are invited to join and help us form our new Unit. Please call Yvonne at 228-255-5239.

Favre Forward Foundation donates to Southern Miss Children's Center for Communication and Development

BY DAVID TISDALE

The University of Southern Mississippi Children's Center for Communication and Development scored big Tuesday with a donation from an alumnus known for scoring big on the football field.

Founded by former Southern Miss and current Green Bay Packers quarterback Brett Favre and his wife, Deanna, the Brett Favre Forward Foundation provided $25,000 to the center to be used for construction of therapy rooms for clients and observation rooms for parents of children who receive services at the center.

"Our foundation works with disabled and disadvantaged children," said Deanna Favre, who presented the check to the center's co-director, Margaret Buttross-Brinegar, and a former client of the center, Andy Kodger. "I liked what I saw (after touring the center), the quality of the teachers and the instruction, and how they prepare the children to transition to schools. Obviously, it's a very worthy cause."

The Children's Center provides services throughout Mississippi for infants, toddlers and preschoolers with communication and developmental disabilities.

Presently, the center is holding a major fund-raising campaign to raise $350,000 to modify building space on the Hattiesburg campus to make it appropriate for its special population of children, graduate students, families, and trainees. These modifications will allow the center to make a difference in the lives of the children it serves, as well as the thousands of children who will ultimately be served by the graduates and practitioners who receive training for this very special population.

The Brett Favre Forward Foundation has contributed approximately $200,000 to charities so far in 2004, both in Mississippi and in Wisconsin. Some of the recipients of the foundation's generosity include the Salvation Army, the Association for Retarded Citizens and Hope Haven (a home for neglected and abused children) among other charities.

"We're very honored to receive this gift," Buttross-Brinegar said. "The Favre Foundation has done some really great work in our community."

MDEQ encourages participation in World Water Monitoring Day

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) encourages all local watershed groups, environmental organizations, individual citizens, students, and businesses to participate in the second annual World Water Monitoring Day, October 18, 2004.

The goal of this educational event is for people to experience water-monitoring first-hand and to evaluate conditions within their local watersheds. Monitors will enter data into a global database that stores all information collected during the monitoring period from September 18 through October 18.

Staff from MDEQ will be collecting water samples at various sites across the state and report findings on October 18. If you or your organization would like to participate, please contact Donna Cromeans in MDEQ's Information Center at 601.961.5214 or by email at Donna_Cromeans@deq.state.ms.us.

America's Clean Water Foundation and the International Water Association, in conjunction with a host of global partners, are coordinating World Water Monitoring Day on October 18, 2004.

MDEQ Director Charles Chisolm said that Mississippi has taken many positive steps towards protecting the state's water quality, however there is still a lot of work to do. He praised the efforts of the many Mississippians who participated in the World Water Monitoring Day, last year, and those who participated in the National Water Monitoring Day celebrating the 30th anniversary of the Clean Water Act in 2002.

"While great strides have been taken to clean and protect the state's water resources since the enactment of the Clean Water Act, we must continue to be vigilant to preserve and protect one of the world's most valuable natural resources," said Chisolm.

The day's efforts will be relatively easy and fun to carry out. Volunteers will be asked to perform and submit data from four key tests: dissolved oxygen, pH, turbidity/clarity, and temperature. More experienced monitors may also complete more technical analyses such as macro Invertebrate counts (bugs), nitrogen content, phosphorus, and the speed of the water flow.

Data collected by all participating monitors can be viewed at <http://www.worldwatermonitoringday.org/>. In each of the first two years of this event, over 5,000 monitoring sites were registered in the World Water Monitoring Day database, maintained by America's Clean Water Foundation. It is estimated that over 75,000 took part in World Water Monitoring Day activities in each year.

For more details, go to www.deq.state.ms.us or visit the World Water Monitoring Day website at www.worldwatermonitoringday.org. You may also check out www.acwf.org (America's Clean Water Foundation) and www.iwahq.org.uk (International Water Association) for related information.

Love Unites/Strife Divides

It is disconcerting to see how divisive the current political climate is within this country. But, that is the nature of politics and some things will probably never change. What is perhaps even more disconcerting than the political divisiveness is that supposed religious issues oftentimes seem to be at the center of these debates. Some of these people who claim to be men and women of God attack their political rivals in ways that are certainly not models of Christian charity, let alone models of political civility. Perhaps what animates these well-intentioned people is the conviction that they are right and that they are waging a battle for the sake of righteousness. We would all do well to remember that the good example of quiet and humble actions speaks louder than self-righteous words or doctrine, and that when religion is used as a weapon to attack our enemies, it is no longer true religion. All true religion is about love, whose primary goal is to unite. That which seeks to divide is strife, and strife is the opposite of love.

Hatred stirs up strife, but love covers over all offenses.
R.S.V. Proverbs 10:12

What gets your attention?

We're getting out of here!" my friend told me in a frightened, quivering voice. "We're heading to Houston as early as we can in the morning! I don't want to live through the terror and misery of another Hurricane Betsy!"

That conversation occurred two full days before the projected landfall of Hurricane Ivan. Even at that moment, that family had already run up and down their checklist and had carefully packed everything necessary for a trip and a few days away from home.

At the opposite end of the spectrum, some folks were telling their friends and were also calling in to talk shows to tell the world that they had weathered several hurricanes and numerous storms. "And I'll ride this one out too! I'm not going anywhere!"

Between those extremes of scared, nervous rabbits and macho, foolhardy, stubborn mules, the majority of the local populace constantly traded storm updates, transportation routes for evacuation, a checklist for needed supplies, and whether to stay or leave.

For the latter group, it all became a crapshoot, a rolling of the meteorological dice to see where the barometric pressure, the hurricane eye and the steering currents might lead.

Computer models, bewildering and confusing by their multiple scenarios, kept everyone wondering and further chancing, almost challenging the ever-changing caprices of nature.

The very uptight feeling portrayed by most people was even more accentuated and aggravated by the realization that, in wishing that the hurricane be steered away from us meant only that it would be steered into the path of some other unfortunate people.

"We are sad to announce that the perfect-conditions scenario for steering the hurricane to our east has not materialized. New Orleans will receive a hard glancing blow and, at worst, a direct hit. Make no mistake about it. This is an extremely dangerous storm."

What Mayor C. Ray Nagin was lamenting was but the echo of every other mayor on this side of the Gulf Coast.

Translated, the sadness of each mayor meant: "It is just too bad that this vicious, deadly hurricane will hit us instead of some other neighboring city."

Actually, no mayor would want to say that. Yet, the conclusion is inescapable if we carry the lament out to its logical conclusion. "It is just too bad that we have to be the ones to suffer," is the lament of every city. So the people pray that God will change the course of the storm, and let some other city suffer the hit and destruction.

In a meteorological game of spiritual dodge ball, knowing that no hurricane backs up but will crash into some section of the Gulf Coast once it enters the Gulf of Mexico, we all nevertheless pray that God will spare all of us. Well, God help all of us poor sinners.

In the midst of all this mayhem, radio and TV commentators did yeoman duty for the most part in updating the storm and evacuation. But then they spoiled their noble efforts, showing how transparently mercenary they were by periodically yanking the chain of stymied, frustrated drivers bucking the hurricane gridlock.

When a driver can average 12 miles an hour in the midst of tens of thousands of cars evacuating the city, it is painstaking and a bit irritating, still encouraging. Yet, some elements of the media, bent on manufacturing a headline-grabbing hurricane story, could not resist stabbing the nerve center of the drivers and their passengers from time to time.

Naturally, we have only ourselves to blame when the media exploit our laziness in preparing for emergencies, our slowness in getting things done, our impatience with obstacles to what we are doing, and our lack of courtesy in working with others.

In all fairness to the media, they do pick up many Good Samaritan hurricane stories from the pits of tragedy, loss, pain and loneliness. Just as on 911, personal generosity, sharing and heroism frequently germinate where there is numbing tragedy. Side by side with repugnant tales of gouging, there are the heartwarming stories of selfless sharing.

So, does God get our attention by parading before us the spectacular wonders of the universe and Mother Nature? Willy-nilly, despite all our selfishness, worldliness and petulance, God finds a way to snap us to attention and hunt us down. Although we are stricken by spiritual ADD, God rings our bell sooner or later, rousing us from slumber.

For the most part, we humans seem to be worst-case scenario creatures whose attention is hard to come by, even when God calls. Just several days before Hurricane Ivan began to cut up, we celebrated the homegoing of a 24-year-old man who was minding his own business, riding his motorcycle. A 23-year-old ran a stop sign, wasting him on the spot.

That proved to be a clarion call to me personally, reminding me joltingly of a time 30 years ago when I was driving a friend. Suddenly, the friend asked me: "Do you realize that you just ran a red light?"

Glancing frantically through the rear-view mirror, I shot back: "My God! I can't believe it, but I just did!"

It took that heart-stopping experience to wake me up, grab my attention and put the fear of the Lord into my driving. I was tormented for months just thinking of the mayhem and destruction, even of life, which I could have caused by my lackadaisical driving.

About the same time as the motorcycle tragedy, four people enjoying themselves in a nearby restaurant were gunned down by a crazed neighbor driven by his need for heavy drugs. One of the slain innocent patrons of the restaurant, Johnny Stovall, happened to be the father of one of our tiniest parishioners, 7-year-old Shanae Stovall.

A Hurricane Ivan or a senseless killing is but one of many messengers sent our way in the course of our lives. They are jockeying for our attention in order that, through the sadness and bleakness of tragedy, we may find our way back to God.

Reflections on Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Scripture Says...

By Ed Young

Christians shall be judged by works

The believers and followers of Christ will not be judged for his sins, at the judgment seat of Christ. He will however be judged for what he did or did not do for the cause of Christ.

II Cor. 5:10, For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that everyone may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad.

This writer does not know what all the king of kings will judge by. But, it would seem as though our daily walk through this life will give us a clue.

What praise we offer up, the time spent in reading His word, our prayer life and meditation, telling others about the good news that the Heavenly Father saves them and desires them to know Him through His son.

Surely another thing He will notice is what we do with our finances. So any given to the poor and dying around the world? Do we support our local church?

Is our neighbor in need? Do we forgive the one's who have wrong us?

Do we pray for our enemy? Do we seek to be a peacemaker? Do we reflect the Christ like life in our daily walk?

The thing we must not lose sight of is that we are expected to do these things; as a servant of Christ.

The Christian's sins are nailed to Calvary's Cross. The works is what he will be judged by.

The life of the gospel

There is no question about it. We all want a generous portion of the good things of this life. Of course we are most concerned about material things. We can, however, also add good health because without good health we cannot fully enjoy the material goodies of this life. We also strive to gain the respect, even the admiration of others. It feels good when we have excelled in a certain field and we are admired because of it. Unfortunately, most of us leave out one key element in our quest for the better life - Jesus Christ, the divine Son of God. You see, you cannot ignore Jesus Christ and ultimately expect a good life. Jesus said, "Apart from Me you can do nothing" (John 15:5). This includes improving the quality of your life. Did you catch what I said? I mentioned the quality of your life. Without Christ you cannot really improve the quality of life. You might increase the quantity of things in your life. You might gain great wealth and you might even gain the admiration of many men and women. But the quality of your life may not change at all. In fact you may still experience a great lack of inner peace and contentment. This is why Christ came into the world. He said, "I came that they might have life, and have it abundantly" (John 10:10). He came into the world in order to change the quality of life experienced by people like you and me. He came to give you an abundance of love, joy, peace and contentment. There is nothing worse than sadness in the midst of plenty. But sadness there will be if you ignore Jesus Christ. Isn't it time for you to turn to Him and seek the abundance of life that comes thru Him?

Iraqis at Camp Shelby help troops prepare for deployment

BY HOLBROOK MOHR
Associated Press Writer
HATTIESBURG, Miss.

(AP)—Beyond the razor wire and reinforced checkpoints and past the twisted and burned cars, the gravel roads are lined with weathered buildings covered in Arabic graffiti and plastered with pictures of Saddam Hussein.

Almost every day, the streets are alive with Iraqi protesters, some of whom are hoarse from screaming at young American soldiers.

And despite the deep green blanket of pines against a blue sky in the distance, the mock-up Iraqi city tucked inside this 136,000-acre National Guard training base in rural South Mississippi can evoke thoughts of dangers and death in that desert country, even for veteran soldiers who have tried to forget.

"That's just how our campsite looked, barbed wire for days, sandbags for days," said Sgt. Veronique McCorvey, a National Guard soldier who recently returned from a 13-month deployment in Iraq. "The only difference is the greenery."

To prepare soldiers for the cultural differences they'll experience in Iraq, about 300 role players have been hired to stage protests and participate in other exercises at Camp Shelby, a Mississippi National Guard facility now operating as a federal training site for troops headed to hotspots in the Middle East.

Col. Daniel Zayjack, 45, brigade commander of the Army's 3rd Brigade 87th Division and head of the training at Camp Shelby, said the role players are part of "theater immersion" training.

Zayjack just spent 10 days in Iraq gathering information to use during training at the base. In theater immersion training, he said, the military takes the most recent information available and uses it to craft scenarios. He said the role players "add a degree of realism that is almost incalculable."

The Iraqi speaking role players also can help soldiers learn to communicate efficiently with a translator in a mob scenario.

"That skill in itself is very critical," Zayjack said.

Zayjack said many of the role players, including Iraqi Americans, demonstrate their patriotism by taking the job.

For 17-year-old Maitham Al-sayed, who traveled with his father from Dearborn, Mich., to be a role player, the work all about repaying a debt of gratitude.

"I'm doing this because America helped us out by taking care of Saddam Hussein," he said. "We're paying back the favor by helping them out."

During an interview in their hotel room in Hattiesburg, 26-year-old Bassim Ali said he also felt obligated to help.

Ali said his family was so devastated by Saddam's regime, he would rather help the United States by working on the base as a role player than using his bachelor's degree in computer science to get a more traditional job.

In a thick Iraqi accent, Ali told The Associated Press that four of his cousins were executed by Saddam's regime on the same day in 1998 when they refused to pledge allegiance to the Baath party.

And after they killed (my cousins), they put them in a refrigerator and called us saying we had to pay 23 dinars for each one of them, the charge of the bullets," he said. He said 23 dinars is equal to about $3.

Ali said the Iraqi role players received a warm reception from the soldiers on the base.

"They are very polite," he said. "They respect us."

Ali and Al-sayed are just two of about 50 Iraqi role players working at Camp Shelby.

Two companies, Goldbelt Eagle and The Bionetics Corp., provide the role players for the training exercises.

John Ban, 43, director of operations for Bionetics, said the military has used role players for years but recently began using foreign employees because "it adds more realism."

Ban said the role players help soldiers learn to deal with protests and the needs of Iraqi civilians. The Iraqis also can teach the soldiers the hierarchy of Iraqi social circles, information he said is invaluable in securing the cooperation of the Iraqi people.

Ban said about 100 Iraqi-Americans are working as role players for Bionetics at Camp Shelby, Fort Dix in

New Jersey and Fort Drum in New York. He said there are more role players coming but was hesitant to give details on the operations for fear of compromising classified military information.

Ban did say that other ethnic groups are used on other military bases to train soldiers for deployment in other areas of the world.

Ali Al-sayed, 39, a team leader for role players, said many Iraqis are so eager to help that he found 1,200 Iraqi-Americans who were willing to volunteer as role players. Those on the bases, however, are hired with pay varying on the knowledge and expertise they bring to the training exercises. He did not provide specific pay amounts.

He said the vast majority of Iraqis, both in the United States and in Iraq, celebrated the fall of Hussein.

Ali agreed, adding that news reports coming from Iraq don't always portray the sentiment of most Iraqis.

The news channel, when they are walking the streets, make interviews just with those people who truly love Saddam ... they never show those people who are trying to say they are victims (of Saddam's regime)," Ali said.

He also said much of the world has been shielded from images that illuminate the extent of mass graves, tortured Iraqis and children born deformed because of exposure to chemical weapons.

Ali said the next generation of Iraqis have hope for the future ... something inconceivable to many of their parents and grandparents.

Ali Al-sayed said he dreams of a day when Iraqis can hold free elections and rebuild a country ravaged by decades of violence.

Ali said the only elections many Iraqis have experienced were those held by Hussein to try to show the world he was not an authoritarian dictator. But, Ali said those ballots asked only if the voter chose Saddam for president, "yes or no."

"If you put no, write down your name and address," Ali said the ballot demanded. "You put no, that means I want to die."

Ali said that when the United States toppled Saddam's regime, many Iraqis in Dearborn, Mich., home to the largest population of Iraqis in the United States, took to the streets with American flags.

He said when people from other Arab countries asked why they would praise the United States' victory over an Arab country, his response was simple: "Because they gave us a big favor and if you don't like this country, leave it."

Field trip reservations at the Lynn Meadows Discovery Center

Teachers don't miss this opportunity for your students to engage in weather and science activities as the Lynn Meadows Discovery Center presents The Magic School Bus™ Kicks Up a Storm, a 2,500 sq. ft. traveling exhibit, from now-December 18.

The bi-lingual exhibit, based on the best-selling Scholastic Books and the ever-popular television series, was created by The Children's Museum of Houston and will travel to 36 cities. "Since we are in the midst of hurricane season," says Mary Cordray, Associate Director, "what better way for children and families to expand their weather awareness than through this dynamic, engaging exhibit." Ms. Frizzle™ and her reptilian sidekick Liz will be making appearances often during the three months.

Field trip admission is $4.00 per child, parent or chaperone. Teaching staff are free of charge. The schools groups will enjoy the traveling exhibit and the Discovery Center exhibits for the one admission. Call now to reserve your space. 897-6039 ext. 14 or visit the web site, www.lmcd.org.

Trout

shed a little light on the matter...

"If you stop and think about it, those Indians - all 714 of them - probably used to wade fish along the expansive marsh shoreline that is now U.S. Highway 90 using a gorge or bow and arrow. Today, with a fraction of that historical marsh shoreline and a few hundred thousand more Indians, all armed with rod and reel and center console powerboats, the fishing pressure is much more than the fish population can bear.

A second fellow (apparently not a rocket scientist either) confessed that the current 14-inch minimum size limit made crooks out of him and his buddies. "C'mon, you've got to be kidding. This guy doesn't really expect everyone to believe a smaller minimum size limit would suddenly turn him into a law-abiding sportsman, does he? If he keeps twelve-inch fish when the limit is fourteen, he'd likely keep ten-inch fish if the limit were twelve..."

"Catch and release all the fish you want, keep a few of the larger ones to eat if you like, but release those undersized trout to grow, mature, spawn and live to fight another day..."

"Doc"

Fred emailed me a few more remarks on the subject:

"The crux of the matter and the principal reason for maintaining the limit at fourteen (or larger) is that only about 50% of the twelve-inch fish have had an opportunity to spawn, and 100% of the fish have spawned at least once at fourteen inches."

I sort of agree with Fred, but I decided to read the article to one of my other fishing experts, Stella, and get her opinion. I did so at breakfast this morning. It turns out that Stella had been reading about the debate in the newspaper reports of the public hearings, but had not said anything.

When she got through reading Fred's comments, I asked her what she thought of changing the limit. Her reply was very sharp and to the point.

"There's no thinking involved. Speckled trout is a small fish at fourteen inches and almost all of that is head and tail. There's not much of a filet to eat at the present limit. Why would anyone want to catch and keep a smaller fish? What in the world are they going to do with it?"

All this is still up in the air. The hearings were just an interim step. The "official" verdict will be decided by the Commission at their next meeting on September 21.

It seems like a lot of fuss for a mere two inches, but I hope they don't make the change. Keeping the present limit will make a lot of little fishes very happy.

Students making progress in Mississippi!

90 percent of Mississippi schools rated Successful, Exemplary and Superior-Performing

Now in the second year of utilizing the Mississippi accountability model using absolute achievement and academic improvement, Mississippi's schools are proving that investing in education and accountability pays off. With results approved Friday by the Mississippi Board of Education, 90 percent (754 of 838 schools) of Mississippi's schools were found to be either Successful, Exemplary or Superior-Performing. Student achievement continues to increase. A remarkable 28 percent (233 schools) were found to be Superior-Performing, the highest category a school can be assigned.

"We are making great strides in student achievement," said Dr. Henry L. Johnson, State Superintendent of Education. "Across almost every grade and subject, student achievement has improved over last year both in the percentage of students scoring Proficient or above and in the average test score."

Achievement and Growth

Under the new accountability standards, schools are graded individually on improvement and on achievement using scores from the Mississippi Curriculum Tests in elementary and middle school and tests in Algebra I, English II and Biology in high school. Using these scores, the Commission on School Accreditation assigns each school with grades 3-12 a level between 1 (Low-Performing) and 5 (Superior-Performing).

Some of the most significant changes occurred at the middle grades. The improvement in eighth-grade mathematics was particularly notable. The percentage of students scoring Proficient or Advanced increased 12 percentage points from 48 percent to 60 percent. We still saw a small increase (one percent) in the percentage of students scoring Proficient or Advanced in seventh grade mathematics.

At the high school level, mathematics is also an area that saw significant improvement. The percentage of students passing Algebra I on their first attempt improved by nearly nine points to 90.7 percent. Four years ago that percentage was about 70 percent.

Fifteen districts had all schools in their district rated level 5 (Superior-Performing). This represents approximately 10 percent of the school districts in the state. The 15 districts are Booneville, Corinth, Enterprise, Long Beach, New Albany, Newton County, Ocean Springs, Pass Christian, Petal, Pontotoc City, Pontotoc County, Richton, Tishomingo County, Union City, and Union County.

The number of schools rated one of the lower two levels has decreased dramatically. Only 76 schools were rated level 2 (Under-Performing) and only 8 were assigned level 1 (Low-Performing). These two categories combined represent less than 10 percent of Mississippi's schools. Last year, 17 percent of Mississippi's schools were rated level 1 or 2, representing 137 schools. The reduction of this number to 85 represents a drop to less than 10 percent. The number of level 1 schools decreased from 31 to only eight.

Compared to last year, 80 more schools were rated level 5, a nine percent increase. Only 2 districts had 100 percent of their schools rated level 5, compared to 14 districts this year. Of schools with achievement level 5 this year, 151 schools met or exceeded expected academic improvement. Of level 4 schools, 81 met or exceeded expected academic improvement. Of level 3 schools, 125 met or exceeded expected academic improvement. Even 18 of level 1 or 2 schools met or exceeded expected academic improvement. In 2004, 44.7 percent of 838 schools met or exceeded their growth expectations.

Priority Schools

Schools that do not meet achievement goals or show expected academic improvement receive a ranking of Level 1 (Low-Performing) with the lowest of these deemed Priority Schools. Last year's Priority Schools received a year of intense assistance and monitoring by the Mississippi Department of Education and others and have demonstrated remarkable improvement. Eight of the 10 schools have improved enough to be removed from Priority status entirely, including Ruleville Central Elementary, which attained a level 4

(Exemplary). Principal Bessie Gardner led the Sunflower County School, with students in kindergarten through fifth grade, in exceeding their academic growth goal for the year.

"We analyzed test scores and desegregated the data to determine our plan of action," said Gardner. "We met periodically to discuss what we were doing and what we needed to do. We kept components of a program we were already utilizing and combined them with the Mississippi's Choice program."

The school motivated students through pep rallies and offering bicycles, which were hanging in the school as a reminder throughout the school year, to the students who read and summarized the most books. Students who needed individualized attention were tutored during the last period of school and after school. The computer lab was also available to students after school.

By combining data, motivation and extra services, the students, teachers, principal and other staff members were able to raise the standard and see the fruits of their labor by reaching Exemplary status.

Three Priority Schools, including Nichols Middle School in Canton, Ida Greene Elementary School in Belzoni, and Quitman County Elementary School in Lambert, improved their performance enough to attain a ranking of Level 3

(Successful). Ida Greene Elementary School met its expected academic growth goal, while both Nichols Middle School and Quitman County Elementary School exceeded their growth goals for the year, resulting in the elevated status.

"The fact that we've made this much progress is indicative of what we can expect in the future," said Dr. Susan Rucker, Associate State Superintendent for Innovation and Improvement, who attributes the outstanding progress of the Priority Schools to the tremendous effort put forth by Mississippi educators. "They not only made an effort, but they are sustaining that effort through the years."

Accreditation

Of the 152 school districts in Mississippi, 97 percent will receive an Accredited Status after meeting 100 percent of the Process Standards as outlined in the Mississippi Public School Accountability Standards, 2003.

Only two districts will be on Advised status based on citations on fewer than 5 of the 37 standards. Only two districts received a Probation status.

The Office of Accreditation has provided technical assistance to several districts in the state which has resulted in them receiving their Accredited Status, including Amite County and Quitman County. Several other districts had deficiencies over the course of the school year, but were able to rectify them before school started this year.

Closing the Gaps

Mississippi continues to make progress in closing the achievement gaps between white students and minority students. Comparing test results from 2001-02 and 2002-03, the achievement gap has decreased while overall achievement has maintained or increased in reading, math and language in the third and seventh grades. The same trend holds true when comparing data from the Subject Area

Testing Program assessments in Algebra I, Biology I, History, and English II. Similar outcomes are expected from the 2003-04 results, which will be available soon.

Adequate Yearly Progress

Mississippi's students also showed progress in meeting federal achievement goals under the No Child Left Behind Act. The No Child Left Behind Act requires a certain percentage of students to be proficient each year for a school to meet Adequate Yearly Progress requirements. This percentage is raised incrementally until 2014, when 100 percent of students must be proficient. The school must reach this target percentage both for the overall student population as well as eight sub-groups based on race, economic disadvantage and other factors. Failure to meet the target percentage in just one subgroup results in a school not meeting Adequate Yearly Progress Requirements.

An impressive 76 percent of Mississippi's schools (659 schools) met Adequate Yearly Progress requirements in all three areas, including reading/language arts, math, and other academic indicators.

On the other academic indicators, 98 percent of Mississippi Schools (856 schools) met requirements. Graduation rates for high schools and attendance rates at middle and elementary schools are included in this category.

In reading/language arts, 81 percent of Mississippi schools (709 schools) met requirements, while 83 percent of Mississippi schools (721 schools) met requirements in math.

Only eight percent of Mississippi schools (72 schools) are in some level of School Improvement under the No Child Left Behind Act due to not meeting Adequate Yearly Progress requirements in the same academic area for two or more consecutive years.

Mississippi's Choice
Forty Mississippi schools implemented the Mississippi's Choice School Reform Model last year and have made progress at an even greater rate than the state average. Fourth grade students scoring proficient and above in Mississippi's Choice schools showed a 15 percentage point gain in math, a 10 percentage point gain in language and a five percentage point gain in reading. Seventh grade students scoring proficient and above in Mississippi's Choice schools showed an eight percentage point gain in math, a 19 percentage point gain in language and a five percent gain in reading.

Mississippi's Choice is a comprehensive school reform model that includes performance standards for students, provides teachers with tested curriculum materials and employs a balanced approach to assessment. Along with literacy and math instruction, the model includes cross-age tutoring and instructional routines to promote student citizenship. While supporting leadership focused on results, Mississippi's Choice provides on-site technical assistance and high quality professional development for teachers and administrators and utilizes community/family outreach to strengthen parent involvement.

Sixty-five percent of the participating schools were rated a level 3 (Successful), level 4 (Exemplary) or level 5 (Superior-Performing). Forty percent of the schools met or exceeded expected academic improvement; 75 percent met Adequate Yearly Progress in reading and in math.

We are on the right track in Mississippi. The investment in education is paying off, as evidenced by the strong, steady improvement we are seeing in our test scores and accountability ratings, as well as the reduction in the number of Priority Schools, increase in meeting Adequate Yearly Progress requirements under the No Child Left Behind Act, and the progress we are making in closing the achievement gap.

Dolly Parton

Dolly Parton to perform two shows at Grand Casino Biloxi

Dolly Parton, one of America's most beloved superstars, will make a stop on her new tour for two performances at Grand Casino Biloxi on October 16 and 17. On the Hello, I'm Dolly tour, audiences will get to travel with the iconic singer, songwriter, entrepreneur and philanthropist through her extensive and eclectic songbook, and relive the songs from every era of her stunning, four decades-long career.

Kicking off her most extensive tour in 20 years in Greenville, South Carolina on October 14th, Hello, I'm Dolly will see Parton perform as she's never performed before, dipping into every facet of her genre-defying musical career. Fan favorites like the early Appalachian songs that brought her to stardom, the hugely successful pop hits from the 70s and 80s, her work with Kenny Rogers, her favorite numbers from recent albums Little Sparrow and The Grass is Blue (the most critically acclaimed of her career), and brand new material from her forthcoming album, Blue Smoke, will come to life on stage. Opening act The Grascals, a band of accomplished Nashville musicians (formed officially in 2004 by the formidable talents of Terry Eldredge, Jimmy Mattingly, David Talbot, Jamie Johnson, Danny Roberts and Terry Smith), will join forces with an assortment of other fine musicians for Dolly's new show.

From her humble beginnings to her current status as an internationally recognized cultural icon, Dolly Parton endures with her unique brand of unabashed authenticity. Dolly's last tour in 2002 hit the small club circuit in support of her most recent bluegrass album, Halos & Horns. Now, Hello, I'm Dolly marks the very first time fans can experience the breadth of Dolly's work — everything they love about their favorite performer, from every decade including the hits "I Will Always Love You," "9 to 5," "Coat of Many Colors," "Islands in the Stream" and "Jolene."

"The show itself has every color of me in it, from gospel to bluegrass to country to the bigger production numbers, and to the pop hits that I've been fortunate to do through the years. I think there will be something for everybody. I wanted to do it in a big way so all of us can enjoy it. My band and I are really looking forward to this!" said Parton.

Sustaining an enraptured fan base across the world for decades, why has she chosen to take to the road with career-spanning Hello, I'm Dolly now? "In 2002, I went on a tour for three months to promote [Halos & Horns]. I realized how much I missed the road and how much the fans seemed to have missed me. It was just magical. I saw that I had some fans about all areas of my career, all the way back through the years...some liked the pop, some liked the big production, some loved the bluegrass and the more simple sound."

"So I decided to combine all the things that I've done through the years," said Parton. The 2002 Halos & Horns tour has been captured in a live DVD and double CD titled Live And Well, which will be released September 14th on Sugar Hill Records.

Dolly Parton will perform for two shows at the Biloxi

Grand Theatre — Saturday, October 16 at 8pm and Sunday, October 17 at 4pm. Tickets for both shows are $64.95 and $69.95 — with a limit of eight tickets per person. A dinner show package is available; $76.95 for the Casual Dinner package, which includes a show ticket and dinner at the Marketplace Buffet, Roxy's Diner, Corky's BBQ or Islandview Café or $94.90 for the Gourmet Dinner package which includes a show ticket and dinner at Brulo's or Chopstix (all dinners are set menus except for the buffet). Advance restaurant reservations are recommended.

Tickets and dinner show packages are available at the Grand Box Office, through Ticketmaster or online at www.ticketmaster.com. Connection Card Comp Dollars may be used to purchase tickets. There is a limit of eight (8) tickets per person for both public and Connection Card purchases.

UPN may be wrong venue for challenging 'Veronica Mars'

By John Crook
© Zap2it

"Nancy Drew" meets "My So-Called Life" by way of "Twin Peaks" in "Veronica Mars," one of the season's most provocative dramas, premiering Wednesday, Sept. 22, on UPN.

Kristen Bell stars in the title role as a resilient and resourceful 17-year-old apprentice private eye who tries to unravel a murder case that torpedoed her father's (Enrico Colantoni) career as sheriff of Neptune, their class-conscious Southern California town.

The victim was Veronica's best friend, Lilly Kane, a member of one of the town's most powerful families and the sister of Veronica's boyfriend, Duncan (Teddy Dunn). When Sheriff Mars fingered the "wrong" culprit, the ensuing scandal drives him from office and ruptures his marriage.

By day, Veronica has to navigate the hallways of Neptune's high school, now sans boyfriend, ostracized by the scandal as well as her own drug-induced rape during a teen party.

This is strong stuff, yet the 24-year-old Bell - who squared off with Anne Heche in the intense Lifetime movie "Gracie's Choice" and played a sociopathic young con woman in a memorable episode of HBO's "Deadwood" - skillfully manages the full trajectory of her prickly character.

The actress says she enjoys juggling Veronica's multiple facets as sleuth, doting daughter and social outcast.

"What appealed to me ... was what all those elements did to her as an individual," Bell says. "Many girls' parents are divorced ... and they struggle with being an outcast. (Veronica) really deals with it, and she's not a pushover."

"Veronica Mars" is an edgy cut above most standard network fare, but if it is easy to see why the more profit-conscious Big Four networks steered clear of this often surprisingly dark material (villains outnumber sympathetic characters by a vast margin), it also seems hard to believe that UPN - a network better known for urban comedies than sophisticated dramas - is the right home for this series. By all means, catch Bell as she turns into a star, but ultimately, prepare to have your heart broken in the ratings.

Horoscope This Week

By Caroline James - Zap2it

Sept. 19 through Sept. 25, 2004
Aries (March 21 - April 20)
Luck in romance is yours for the taking. There's no better time to start looking for love or work on the one you've got.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)
Health issues continue to be your bane. Perhaps you're not approaching them in the right manner. Seek advice.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)
A new creative outlet could surprise you, but it couldn't suit you better. Celebrate your newfound style of expression.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)
A homebody a Cancer will always be. This has never been as true for you as it is at this time. Enjoy the solitude.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)
New ways to get old points across will seem so obvious, you'll wonder why you never thought of them before. It doesn't matter.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

You'd love to spend some of your money, and this could be the right time to do it. Consider your options, then make a move.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

You are one lucky person, so use it to your advantage. Things will just seem to fall in your lap. Be gracious.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

Taking stock of your recent changes in life isn't such a bad idea. It will give you an idea of where to go next.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

Do you have enough time for your friends? They could be demanding your attention, and with due cause.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

Asking for a raise or promotion might seem a bit forward, but the stars say it's the right time to do it. Go for it!

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

Travel is really appealing to you. Responsibilities at home may prevent you from getting away now, but plan for it later.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

You're entering a phase where you become legally tied to another person. Rather than it being limiting, it will prove very liberating.

"NASCAR Racing" Sunday, Sept. 19 (TNT, 1 p.m. ET): There was some grumbling from purists when NASCAR's new title standards were announced, but as the Sylvania 300 begins the "Chase for the Championship" today, few can voice serious complaints about its impact. The race to qualify for inclusion in Nextel Cup's "second season" was ultra-competitive, and now drivers such as Jeff Gordon, Jimmie Johnson and Dale Earnhardt Jr. will battle over the final 10 races for the Cup.

"NFL Football" Monday, Sept. 20 (ABC, 9 p.m. ET): Big, fast receivers are now the norm in the pro game, and two of the best should feature prominently in tonight's clash between the Philadelphia Eagles and Minnesota Vikings. Terrell Owens was Philly's top off-season acquisition, and one that quarterback Donovan McNabb will try to keep happy with frequent balls thrown his way. On the Vikings' side is another elite game-breaker, Randy Moss, who had 111 receptions and 17 touchdowns last season.

"Boxing" Saturday, Sept. 25 (HBO, 10:15 p.m. ET): After his shocking knockout in May at the hands of Antonio Tarver, Roy Jones Jr. begins the road back to what he hopes will eventually lead to the heavyweight crown with tonight's scheduled 12-round from Memphis, Tenn. Jones (49-2, 38 KOs), the former undisputed light heavyweight and WBA heavyweight champ, goes up against Glen Johnson (40-9-2, 27 KOs), the IBF light heavyweight title-holder.

Donovan McNabb leads the Philadelphia Eagles against the Minnesota Vikings Monday on ABC.

Even at 21, Andrew Eiden is a seasoned actor who virtually grew up in the theater. But he admits to having been nervous when he got ready to meet Mel Gibson, who serves as executive producer and sometimes director on "Complete Savages," which joins ABC's Friday sitcom lineup on Sept. 24.

"I had just seen 'The Passion of the Christ,' and had seen all this talk in the media that Mel is kind of an eccentric wacko, but as soon as I met him at the final audition, he immediately started joking around to make everyone comfortable," Eiden recalls. "That gave me a very good feeling about him. He's very laid back and cool, and also very smart."

Eiden's sitcom role as Sam Savage - the bookish, introverted and responsible sibling in this rowdy all-male household - fits him like a glove, he adds.

"I was talking with Vince Ventresca, who plays (my uncle) Jimmy on the show, and we were saying how they almost didn't cast actors to play these characters, they just cast people who are the parts," Eiden laughs. "I'm a little bit introverted, I guess, and while I like to think of myself as a smart guy, when it comes to women I'm not the smoothest guy around. I find a lot of parallels with Sam."

The son of theater-centric parents and brother to Emily, an actress, Eiden learned his craft in a Whittier, Calif., community theater, and he says he never seriously considered doing anything else for a job.

"I like to joke that I didn't have a choice in the matter," he says, "but the fact is that it was such a fun thing to do growing up and I made so many good friends in theater, that I just couldn't imagine not doing this with my life."

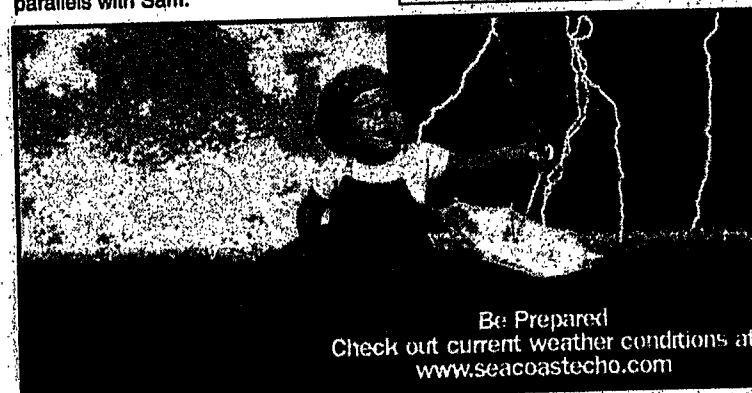

Born: July 23, 1983, in La Mirada, Calif.

Family ties: His father, Michael, is a former actor turned theater coordinator and director; mom, Susan, is an actress and drama teacher; sister Emily is a rising actress; his great-grandmother, Carol Ryrie Brink, wrote the children's novel "Caddie Woodlawn"; several other relatives work in theater both onstage and behind the scenes.

Education: Pursuing a theater arts major at California State University at Long Beach (on hold while he works on "Complete Savages").

TV commercial credits: Pepsi, Apple Jacks cereal, McDonald's, Honda Civic, U.S. Postal Service and several others.

Pets: Two German shepherds, Scarlett and Teddy, and a cat who remains nameless.

'CSI' hits New York as CBS debuts franchise's third series

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

If you think Las Vegas and Miami have provided enough "CSI," consider one Monday night last May.

CBS used an episode of "CSI: Miami" to preview "CSI: NY," just as the network did in 2002 with parent show "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation" in spinning off "CSI: Miami." The results were huge by today's broadcast-TV standards, drawing more than 23 million viewers - so viewers seem ready for more forensic detective work as "CSI: NY" gets its official start Wednesday, Sept. 22, on CBS.

In his series debut, renowned screen and stage actor Gary Sinise ("Forrest Gump," "Apollo 13") becomes the Big Apple counterpart to the earlier series' William Petersen and David Caruso by playing police detective Mack Taylor, who leads another team in analyzing homicide evidence and looking for more clues in unusual places. Melina Kanakaredes ("Providence") returns to weekly work as his partner, Stella Bonasera; Hill Harper ("The Handler"); Vanessa Ferlito, Eddie Cahill ("Friends") and Carmine Giovinazzo round out the new "CSI" squad.

Once "CSI: Miami" got off to a healthy start while "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation" continued to rack up giant ratings, it was little surprise CBS wanted a third edition of executive producer Jerry Bruckheimer's franchise. "CSI" creator and fellow executive producer Anthony Zuiker recalls that at a dinner with several of the network's executives, CBS programming chief (and current Viacom co-CEO) Leslie Moonves "looked over at me and said, 'We all know why we're here, Anthony.' It came together relatively quickly with my producing partners, Carol Mendelsohn and Ann Donahue. We sat down and said, 'How do we do this again?'"

A big part of the process was securing Sinise to head the cast. "I hadn't necessarily been looking for a series role," the Emmy-winning star of such TV projects as "George Wallace" and "Truman" says, "but when Les Moonves contacted me about it, then I sat down with Anthony, it all started to make good sense. For me, this is the right thing at the right time. It's a great ensemble cast. Having come from the theater company (Chicago's Steppenwolf, which Sinise co-founded), I worked for years and years with the same people. This is going to be great."

Also happy to be aboard "CSI: NY," arguably the surest bet for hit status of any new fall show, Kanakaredes has no worries about any potential for the trio of "CSI" series to collide. "I have two kids and they come from the same parents, but they're different," she reasons. "I think it's the same thing with these three shows."

Kanakaredes brings relevant experience to "CSI: NY," since she played a coroner's-office worker in the short-lived 1997 ABC series "Leaving LA." She recalls that in preparing for that show, "I went with a medical examiner on a Sunday's worth of runs, which was the most difficult thing I've ever done in my life. I have seen things I don't care to see again, but at the same time, that research will always be with me." It paid off when Kanakaredes did preliminary work for "CSI: NY," since she could notice differences in the ways some cities' medical examiners work.

Although the "CSI: Miami" episode that introduced "CSI: NY" was filmed mainly on location, the new show is headquartered in California like its predecessors. Zuiker reports scenes for several episodes already have been shot on the East Coast. "We plan to go to Gary Sinise leads television's newest crime-scene investigation squad as "CSI: NY" debuts Wednesday on CBS.

New York probably three or four times a year, and also send some splinter-type crews there to do some shooting. We love the city - it's very hard to duplicate, and we understand that - but a lot of us have families rooted in Las Vegas or California." Thus, Zuiker concluded being in New York full-time "just wasn't practical for us."

However, it does remain the production center for NBC's "Law & Order," which enters its 15th year as a time-slot rival against "CSI: NY." Ex-Las Vegas tram driver Zuiker says even before he got into TV work, "I was a huge 'Law & Order' fan, and I always dreamed of having something on the air and being able to do something like ('Law & Order' producer) Dick Wolf has done. The one thing I've learned about this situation is that there's no such thing as competition, there's just good company. Just like 'Without a Trace' has been successful against 'ER,' there's room for two successful shows in the same time period."

Krause made his TV debut with Burnett

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Q In what state is HBO's "Six Feet Under" filmed? And what can you tell me about Peter Krause? -Cindy, Pennsylvania.

A "Six Feet Under" is filmed primarily in Southern California, where the family drama is set. A native of Alexandria, Minn., Peter Krause, who plays Nate Fisher on the hit drama, made his TV series debut in the short-lived 1990 Carol Burnett sketch comedy series "Carol & Company," followed by other series roles in "If Not for You," "Cybill" and "Sports Night." He also has made guest appearances on "Seinfeld," "Beverly Hills, 90210," "Ellen," "Caroline in the City," "The Drew Carey Show" and "3rd Rock From the Sun," among other shows.

At 39, Krause's career finally seems to be kicking into overdrive. As of this writing, he is making his Broadway debut starring with Carla Gugino ("Karen Sisco") in "After the Fall," and he co-stars with Mark Ruffalo, Laura Dern and Naomi Watts in the new feature drama "We Don't Live Here Anymore." Krause, who has a young son with girlfriend Christine

Peter Krause

King, begins work on the new season of "Six Feet Under" in a few months.

Q Whatever happened to Christa Miller of "The Drew Carey Show"? -E.K. Newburgh, N.Y.

A The niece of Susan Saint James ("Kate & Allie"), Miller married "Scrubs" creator Bill Lawrence in 1999. A guest appearance on that NBC hospital drama in 2001, as Jordan, Dr. Cox's (John C. McGinley) acid-tongued ex, was a huge hit with fans and turned into a heavily recurring role that she still continues, having left "Drew Carey" in 2002.

Off-camera, she and Lawrence have two children.

Q Has Shari Lewis died? My son and I both adored "Lamb Chop's Play-Along." Is a collection of her work available on home video? -P. Hoffman, Jupiter, Fla.

A I'm sorry to report that Lewis died of uterine cancer in 1998. She was 65.

You can find some of her work on VHS and DVD from retailers such as Amazon.com. More DVD releases are sure to follow, and you often can find out-of-print VHS copies for sale on eBay.

CBS daytimers 'Rock the Vote'

Gina Tognoni

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

What do politics and daytime have in common other than drama and intrigue? This fall, the four CBS soaps have partnered with the non-partisan Rock the Vote campaign in an effort to inspire young people to participate in this year's presidential election.

"Guiding Light" star Gina Tognoni, who watched the Democratic National Convention and observed Ben Affleck's and Sean "P. Diddy" Combs' involvement with the media, was very happy to be asked.

"I found it compelling that these major stars came together to tell young people over 18 to go out and vote, because if you don't vote, you lose your power, and it is something we should all cherish," she explains.

But fans of "Y&R," "B&B," "ATWT" and "GL" don't have to worry about a heavy-handed message.

"What we have been doing on the show is wearing buttons and T-shirts," says Tognoni, who plays Dinah Marler. "For example, I was in a scene where I was letting the air out of Cassie's tires, and in the background there was a Rock the Vote sign."

And what other dastardly deeds are in Dinah's future? "This is her chance to redeem herself," Tognoni reveals. "She is going full speed ahead. Everybody hates her; she doesn't have any friends, so she is going to fall into a quiet, dark life."

Also jumping on the political bandwagon is "Y&R" star Eric Braden, who recently was the headline speaker at a John Kerry rally.

Dear Paulette: The actor playing Molly McKinnon on "ATWT" has been changed recently. Is this a temporary or permanent change? The new person does not give the role the "edge" that we were used to with the former actor. Thanks for your help. - Faye S. via Internet

Dear Reader: The change is permanent. Lesli Kay, who played Molly, went to the producers and asked them if she could audition for the role of Lois on "General Hospital," which she got. She and her actor husband, Keith Coulouris, wanted to try life in Hollywood.

6 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: Titanic

The title of director James Cameron's 1997 drama describes not only its subject, but its impact on filmdom that year. It made megabucks and garnered a whopping 11 Oscars... not bad for a movie whose ending everyone already knew. Kate Winslet and Leonardo DiCaprio star as the bride-to-be from first class and the scrappy kid from steerage who find each other on the doomed liner — which, of course, is the real star of the show.

6:30 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Movie: Speed

In this fast-paced 1994 thriller, a Los Angeles police officer (Keanu Reeves) squares off against a crazed nemesis (Dennis Hopper) who has rigged a city bus to explode if its speed drops below 50 mph. The cop is assisted by a plucky female passenger (Sandra Bullock) who takes over steering the unwieldy vehicle while he tries to find and defuse the bomb. Jeff Daniels plays Reeves's police partner.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Charmed

Lady Godiva (guest star Kristen Miller, "She Spies") is brought into the present day by a student at the Magic School in the new episode "The Bare Witch Project." So is the sinister Lord Dyson (guest star Maury Sterling), who doesn't want Lady Godiva to return to her own place and time to finish her legendary ride. The Charmed Ones (Holly Marie Combs, Alyssa Milano, Rose McGowan) and Leo (Brian Krause) come to her aid.

7:30 p.m. on ESPN

NFL Football

Did the Miami Dolphins' season go up in smoke when tailback Ricky Williams retired? How the Phins fare in a challenging first five games, including tonight's in Cincinnati, will go a long way toward determining that. Replacing Williams is, well... maybe Travis Minor? He was as good a guess as any coming out of camp, while in Cincy, a newcomer of sorts has emerged for them as well. He's QB Carson Palmer, the celebrated No. 1 overall pick in 2003.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

Jack & Bobby

Jack (Matt Long) lays down the law to his mother (Christine Lahti) after finding her smoking marijuana again in the new episode "Better Days." She tries to adhere to his demands — but ultimately can't. Bobby (Logan Lerman) unwittingly makes matters worse in trying to help Jack where school and Courtney (Jessica Pare) are concerned. Mick Jackson ("The Bodyguard") directed the story.

8 p.m. on HBO

The Wire

Known for its grit, the urban drama series returns for its third season with "Time After Time." Uprooted from its former headquarters, a Baltimore drug ring looks for a new base of operation as the re-election-seeking mayor (Glynn Turman) orders a general crackdown on crime. Police detectives McNulty and Greggs (Dominic West, Sonja Sohn) target Proposition Joe (Robert F. Chew) to gather evidence against Stringer (Idris Elba).

9 p.m. on 19-PBS

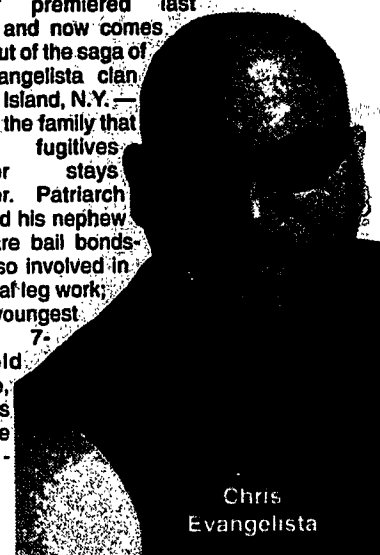

Mystery!

A case has much more of a personal link than usual for Lynley (Nathaniel Parker) in "A Suitable Vengeance," another of the new "Inspector Lynley Mysteries." A murder occurs near his family's estate, and as he conducts the probe, even Havers (Sharon Small) has to wonder if Lynley can maintain his usual objectivity.

9 p.m. on HBO

Family Bonds

The world of bounty hunters is becoming big business for unscripted series: "Dog the Bounty Hunter" premiered last month, and now comes the debut of the saga of the Evangelista clan of Long Island, N.Y. — proving the family that chases fugitives together stays together. Patriarch Tom and his nephew Chris are bail bondsmen also involved in the literal leg work; Tom's youngest child, 7-year-old Frankie, watches from the sidelines.

REURPS Clue: Burl Smith's job

PRTREIP Clue: J.R. sitcom role

EDLORBU Clue: Mork & Mindy's city

CTOMKAL Clue: A.G. role and show

Bonus

I was surprised to learn she majored in drama. I would have guessed music.

Bonus Clue: This actress, who starred on a sitcom that shared part of her name, was born in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Then arrange the circled letters to form the bonus answer, as suggested by the above cartoon and bonus clue.

Monday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 5-FOX on 25-FOX

North Shore

Can Shannen Doherty do for this Hawaiian-resort drama what Heather Locklear did for "Melrose Place"? Fox and the show's producers are banking on it, since "Beverly Hills, 90210" and "Charmed" alumna Doherty joins the series' cast in the new episode "Alexandra," named after her character — the illegitimate daughter of Walter Booth (guest star Christopher McDonald), who also is the father of Nicole (Brooke Burns).

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

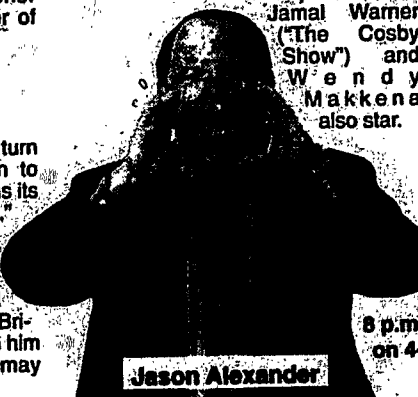

Still Standing

Lauren (Renee Olstead) tries to turn being diagnosed with depression to her advantage as the sitcom begins its third season with "Still Scamming." She enlists Brian's (Taylor Ball) help in playing up her alleged condition, hoping that Bill and Judy (Mark Addy, Jami Gertz) will let her have anything she wants. Brian doesn't want his parents to join him in checking out colleges he may attend.

7:30 p.m. on 4-CBS

Listen Up

Jason Alexander merges certain elements of his George Costanza persona from "Seinfeld" with the background of sportswriter and talk-show host Tony Kornheiser as this sitcom debuts. While he's popular with the public, he constantly feels compelled to prove himself at home, especially to his soccer-player daughter (Daniella Monet). Malcolm-Jamal Warner ("The Cosby Show") and Wendy Makkena also star.

CBS

Everybody Loves Raymond

The ninth and final season of Ray Romano's Emmy-winning sitcom begins with a surprise for the entire Barone family — and one that's likely to play out for a while — in "The Home." The show's writers and producers have maintained they want the last new episodes to seem like traditional "Raymond" stories, but the information revealed here does alter some things.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Las Vegas

Jon Lovitz reprises his earlier guest role in the new episode "The Count of Montecito." The character returns to declare his love for Nessa (Marsha Thomason), who wishes he hasn't. Danny, Mike and Sam (Josh Duhamel, James Lesure, Vanessa Marcil) try to break up a card-counting operation. Mary (Nikki Cox) must initiate a group of topless female employees.

Tuesday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

My Wife and Kids

Ever expect to see Wayne Newton and the Rev. Al Sharpton on the same show? They're guest stars — along with sports legend Michael Jordan — as the sitcom starts its fifth season with the hour-long episode "Fantasy Camp." Michael (Damon Wayans) attends such a site as a gift from Jay (Tisha Campbell-Martin), and it happens to be the Las Vegas basketball camp run by Jordan. The rest of the family goes along, too.

7 p.m. on 54-UPN

All of Us

Robert (Duane Martin) becomes anxious over Tia's

(Elise Neal) request for "space," fearing it may doom their relationship, as the comedy's second season starts with "Reunited and It Doesn't Feel That Good." He maneuvers her into spending a night with him, but the result isn't what he hoped for. Neesee's (LisaRaye McCoy) attempt to help only makes matters worse. Debbie Allen ("Fame") directed the episode.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

According to Jim

Cheryl (Courtney Thorne-Smith) wants to have another child as the comedy series' fourth year begins with "A Hole in One." She has a prerequisite, though: She first wants Jim (Jim Belushi) to give up his bad habits — and as one might expect, that isn't the easiest campaign she could wage.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

The Amazing Race 5

The $1 million grand prize is awarded as host Phil Keoghan gives the winning team the good news in "You've Just Made Me a Millionaire," the two-hour season finale of executive producer Jerry Bruckheimer's globe-spanning series. It's been a summer of big twists for intriguing participants, including the father-and-daughter McCoy's, who were hampered at the outset by Dad's leg injury, and short-statured but determined Charla Faddoul.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

One Tree Hill

A crisis causes Lucas and Keith (Chad Michael Murray, Craig Sheffer) to return as the drama series starts its second season with "The Desperate Kingdom of Love." Dan's (Paul Johansson) heart attack draws them back home. Deb (Barbara Alyn Woods) is deeply unhappy about Nathan and Haley's (James Lafferty, Bethany Joy Lenz) sudden marriage. Peyton and Brooke (Hilarie Burton, Sophia Bush) try to patch things up with each other.

8:30 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Rodney

Rodney Carrington found success as a stand-up comedian, but his fictionalized alter ego throws just about everything away in pursuit of getting laughs as this sitcom debuts. Rodney Hamilton (Carrington) lives for the nights when he can perform in comedy clubs, and just marks time by day in a succession of jobs he can't stand. Jennifer Aspen plays his wife; Amy Pietz also stars.

8:30 p.m. on 6-NBC

Scrubs

Dr. Cox's (John C. McGinley) intended words of wisdom to the staff have a different effect in the new episode "My First Kill." They end up fearing patients may die while in their care, forcing J.D. (Zach Braff) to try to calm everyone down. Elliot (Sarah Chalke) clashes with Molly (guest star Heather Graham) over a patient's need for a new heart valve.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

NYPD Blue

The police drama's 12th and final season begins with "Dress for Success," which gives the precinct yet another new chief, a control freak played by new co-star Currie Graham. Bonnie Somerville ("In-Laws") also joins the regular cast as Ortiz's (Jacqueline Obradors) new partner. Clark (Mark-Paul Gosselaar) turns self-destructive while grieving over his ex-girlfriend's suicide. Sipowicz (Dennis Franz) is stalked.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

Lea Thompson ("Caroline in the City") guest stars in the new episode "Birthright," playing the woman behind the attempted Central Park abduction of a young girl (guest star Abigail Breslin, "Raising Helen") she claims is her daughter. As Benson and Stabler (Mariska Hargitay, Christopher Meloni) try to determine the truth, their investigation leads them to a fertility doctor. Tamara Tunie also guest stars.

Lost
Plane-crash survivors try to coexist on a Pacific island while hoping for rescue, as this drama series from "Alias" producer J.J. Abrams premieres. Matthew Fox ("Party of Five") serves as viewers' guide into the situation, playing a doctor who tries to help injured passengers from the doomed flight — but strange sounds from the surrounding jungle alarm everyone. Evangeline Lilly, Dominic Monaghan, Harold Perrineau Jr. and Terry O'Quinn also star.

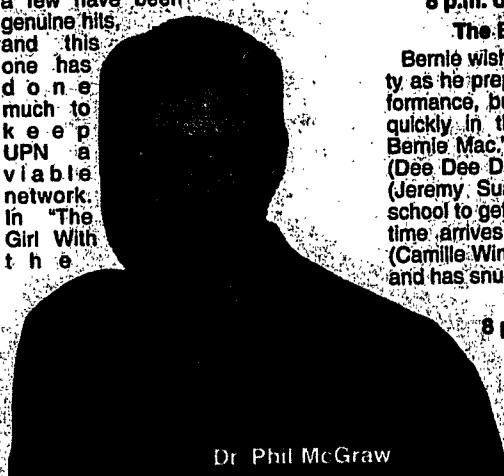

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

A Dr. Phil Primetime Special: Family First
A big success with his syndicated weekday show, Dr. Phil McGraw goes network with this two-hour offering, his survey of problems faced by many modern families — along with his suggested remedies. The topics range from communication problems to potty training; appearances by stars like Nicole Kidman and Robert Redford confirm that the rich and famous aren't necessarily immune to the same dilemmas everyday people deal with.

7 p.m. on 54-UPN

America's Next Top Model
With all the unscripted series that have come along in recent years, only a few have been genuine hits, and this one has done much to keep UPN a viable network. In "The Girl With the Secret," Tyra Banks — an executive producer as well as one of the judges on the show — launches the third season of discovering a candidate for fame, fortune and lots of magazine covers among 12 lovely ladies who compete for a modeling contract.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

The Bernie Mac Show
Bernie wishes for domestic tranquility as he prepares for a stand-up performance, but his hopes are dashed quickly. In the new episode "Being Bernie Mac," he has to mind Bryana (Dee Dee Davis), then learns Jordan (Jeremy Suarez) pulled a prank at school to get out of a test. Once show time arrives, Bernie learns Vanessa (Camille Winbush) has disobeyed him and has snuck in to see his act.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

The Bachelor
Usually, this unscripted series begins with the bachelor in question already selected — but this time, women have the power in deciding who he will be. In this season premiere, they're offered two candidates to potentially compete for. The guy who gets the nod immediately has to determine which 10 of the 25 ladies will receive roses from him, with the others having to leave. Chris Harrison continues as host.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

The Mountain
Two brothers (played by Oliver Hudson and Anson Mount) clash over the family business — popular ski resort Boundary Mountain — as this drama series premieres. When the siblings' father dies, reckless David Jr. (Hudson) inherits control of the site, earning him the resentment of business-minded Will (Mount). Barbara Hershey plays their mother; Tara Thompson and Elizabeth Bogush also star.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order

Legendary for switching cast members, the drama series does it again as Dennis Farina ("Get Shorty") replaces Jerry Orbach as Green's (Jesse L. Martin) police partner in the show's 15th-season opener, "Paradigm." The detectives don't exactly hit it off on their first case, involving the murder of a female ex-soldier who served in Iraq. The prime suspect is the sister of a former Iraqi prison inmate. Another new episode follows.

8:30 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Method & Red

Resentful over being the literal cleanup person for Method and Red (Method Man, Redman) and also over having no place to call her own, Dorothea (Anna Maria Horsford) strikes back in the new episode "How Momma Got Her Groove Back." She turns the game room into a hair salon. Red launches a desperate search for a missing diamond necklace that was loaned to him.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

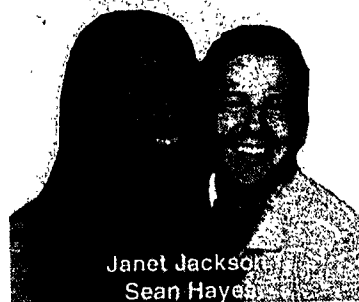

Blue Collar TV

"Sports" fuels the humor in this new episode, with Heath Hyche portraying famously volatile college basketball coach Bobby Knight in one sketch. Bill Engvall plays another coach, this one overseeing a Little League team, whose emotions are close to the edge. A separate skit involves country-music star Charley Pride (portrayed by Gary Anthony Williams).

7:30 p.m. on 6-NBC

Will & Grace

The malfunction may be with Jack (Sean Hayes), not with anyone's wardrobe, as music superstar Janet Jackson guest stars as herself in the new episode "Back Up, Dancer." Having finished a concert tour as a dancer in Jennifer Lopez's show, Jack is eager to return to the stage and bust more moves. Jackson gives him the opportunity in her show, though she may live to regret it.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

CSI: Crime Scene Investigation

The direct parent of another returning crime drama ("CSI: Miami") and the grandparent of a new one ("CSI: NY"), the original series starts its fifth season with "Viva Las Vegas." Greg Sanders (Eric Szmanda) gets a promotion in time to join the other forensic detectives in probing four deaths simultaneously. Reiko Aylesworth ("24") joins the cast as a lab technician; French Stewart ("3rd Rock From the Sun") guest stars.

8:59 p.m. on 6-NBC

ER

The crisis that ended the medical drama's previous season yields another one as the show's 11th year begins with "One for the Road." Taunts traded with another car's passengers result in shots fired at Dr. Pratt (Mekhi Phifer) — whose vehicle goes off the road, plunges into a river and sinks, with Dr. Chen and Elgin (Ming-Na, guest star James Earl) also inside. Shane West joins the cast as an intern.

Friday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC

8 Simple Rules

Bridget (Kaley Cuoco) thinks she's helping Kerry (Amy Davidson) by calling off Kerry's romance with Kyle (Billy Aaron Brown) for her as the sitcom opens year three with "First Day of School." Cate (Katey Sagal) gets an unexpected job offer from the school principal (guest star Adam Arkin). Gym class causes Rory (Martin Spanjers) an uncomfortable situation on his first day of high school.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

Joan of Arcadia

Newly returned from a camp stay, Joan (Amber Tamblyn) resists all attempts by the deity to make her an earthly emissary again, as the drama series' second season opens with "Only Connect." Adam (Christopher Marquette) voices his belief in Joan's earlier claim that she was an agent of heaven. Helen, Will and Luke (Mary Steenburgen, Joe Mantegna, Michael Welch) each have something to hide.

7:30 p.m. on 26-ABC

Complete Savages

It's not always easy for a man to be without a woman in the house, but this rowdy, Mel Gibson-produced sitcom tries it with several men — some of them quite young. The premiere episode introduces Keith Carradine, fresh off "Deadwood," as a single father whose sons manage to chase away numerous prospective housekeepers. Dad finally declares if that's the way it's going to be, the boys will have to learn to cook and clean for themselves.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC

Hope & Faith

Faith (Kelly Ripa) returns from a foreign jaunt prepared to rejoin the household, if Charley (Ted McGinley) will let her, as the sitcom opens its second year with "Escape From Albuquerque." It doesn't take long for her to stir up fresh trouble on several fronts — and to test Charley's patience yet again. If you think young Sydney looks different this season, you're right: The part has been recast with actress Megan Fox.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

JAG

Mac's (Catherine Bell) grief over Webb's death is compounded by the knowledge that a hit man is after her — and also after others linked to Webb — as the military adventure's 10th season starts with "Going After Webb." A former British agent (guest star Ed Quinn) helps Mac try to unravel the mystery and stay alive, with Harm (David James Elliott) also offering support. Jameson Parker ("Simon & Simon") also guest stars.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Third Watch

Aidan Quinn ("Legends of the Fall") begins a multiple-episode guest run as a no-nonsense police lieutenant in the new story "Alone Again, Naturally." The superior gets in Cruz's (Tia Texada) way as she tries to cover for Yokas (Molly Price), who receives both a promotion and divorce papers. Davis and Monroe (Coby Bell, Nia Long) put their budding romance on hold when they collide over a murder case.

8:30 p.m. on 26-ABC

Less Than Perfect

Claude (Sara Rue) wonders why

her latest beau (guest star Will Friedle, "Boy Meets World") won't get more serious with her as the sitcom's third season begins with "Claude Wants to Know." Her curiosity increases when she sees him with another woman. Owen and Carl (Andy Dick, Will Sasso) want to get to know Jeb (Patrick Warburton) better, much to Lydia's (Andrea Parker) horror. E! reporter Giuliana DePandi also guest stars.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

dr. vegas

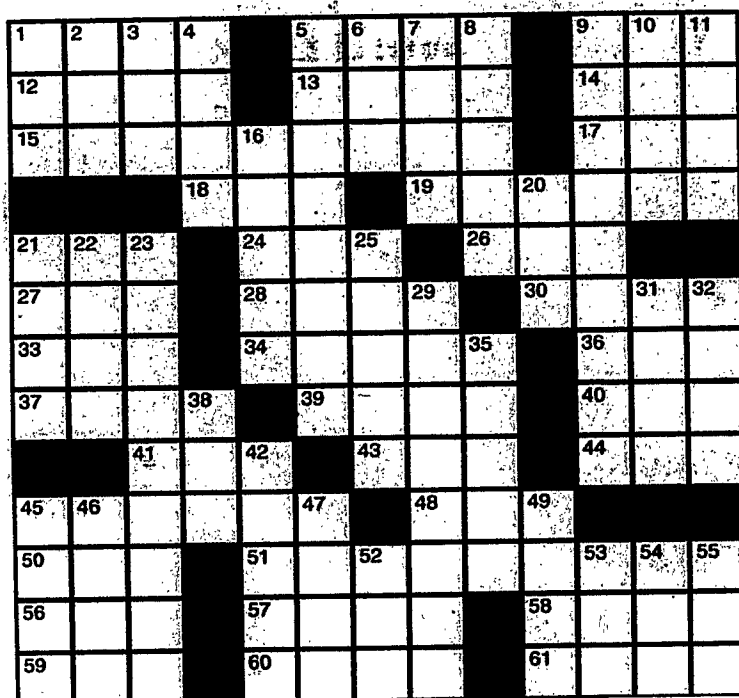

As dark as his last series ("The Lyon's Den") was, Rob Lowe is surrounded by color, brightness and gambler's-paradise energy in the premiere of his newest show. It's the lighthearted saga of a doctor on 24/7 call to serve the needs of the general manager (Joe Pantoliano), employees and patrons of a Las Vegas casino. Sarah Lancaster ("Everwood") co-stars as a blackjack dealer whose job description tends to expand.

Saturday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: Cast Away

Tom Hanks earned another Oscar nomination by reteaming with "Forrest Gump" director Robert Zemeckis on this 2000 drama. The actor holds the screen by himself — or, more precisely, in tandem with a volleyball — for the bulk of the film, playing a Federal Express worker stranded by a plane crash on an island for four years. Helen Hunt plays his girlfriend back home, who struggles not to believe he has perished.

7 p.m. on TNT

Movie: The Matrix

A computer programmer and hacker (Keanu Reeves) discovers that his entire reality is virtual in this 1999 sci-fi tale. He's recruited by a band of freedom fighters to battle the mysterious program that's created this unreal world and return humanity to the real thing. Laurence Fishburne, Carrie-Anne Moss, Hugo Weaving and Joe Pantoliano also star in the action- and effects-packed adventure.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Runaway Jury

Based on a law thriller by novelist John Grisham, this 2003 drama benefits from an especially strong cast — as signaled by the presence of former New York roommates Dustin Hoffman and Gene Hackman as professionals working opposite sides of a trial. Both are concerned about one juror (John Cusack) who has a personal agenda as a gun manufacturer's representative stands accused of culpability in a murder. Rachel Weisz and Bruce Davison co-star.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit
Stabler and Benson (Christopher Meloni, Mariska Hargitay) worry about the influence a "single mother" has on her two sons in "Home." The woman clearly dominates her children, trying to instill in them her own fears about residing in New York. Mario Thomas and Dixie Carter ("Designing Women") guest star.

9:30 p.m. on TNT

Movie: The Animatrix

For those who can't get enough of the live-action "Matrix" movies, there's also this 2003 compilation of nine animated short subjects inspired by the trilogy and originally released on home video. Keanu Reeves and Carrie-Anne Moss, who starred as Neo and Trinity in the full-length features, lend their voices to the same characters in some of the anime-style tales included here.
